Lyle Resigns Post As City Treasurer; Cites Personal Matters

KINGSTON City Treasurer Thomas R. Lyle, in a surprise move, resigned today citing "very pressing, urgent and trying personal matters," which Lyle said were "absolutely unrelated to my work as city treasurer."

Mayor Francis R. Koenig, in accepting Lyle's resignation upon receiving it shortly before noon today, said "it certainly came as a surprise." Koenig said he had "no idea" that Lyle, who was appointed city treasurer less than eight months ago, intended to resign.

In the meantime, until a successor is named, Koenig said that former City Treasurer Orrie R. Riehl will fill in as department head.

The text of Lyle's letter of resignation, dated Aug. 4 and addressed to Koenig is as follows:

"I have meant for sometime to write you concerning what follows, but I have withheld doing so until the problem in the treasurer's office was cleared up. We now have the investigation completed and the auditor's report in and certain persons under accusation for what has occurred there. We also have had a large reduced work force in the treasurer's office.

"I have for sometime been beset by personal problems, absolutely unrelated to my work as city treasurer. These problems make it necessary for me at this time, and despite the shortage of help in the office to offer you here-with my resignation, effective immediately as treasurer of the City of Kingston.

"I have enjoyed my association with you and with the city and regret exceedingly the absolute necessity for me to resign my office in order to devote myself to these very pressing, urgent and trying personal matters," Lyle's letter to Koenig concluded.

Koenig said he was not aware of the nature of Lyle's problems. Lyle was not available for comment today.

The City's city treasurer's office, which Lyle headed since Dec. 29 of last year, has been the subject of an intense investigation by city police and the Ulster County district attorney, resulting in three arrests, Principal Account Clerk John H. Houghtaling on June 4 on charges of third degree grand larceny and petit larceny, Garry Stafford, on June 6 a clerk, on charges of grand larceny and Fred Manuel, another clerk on charges of petit larceny.

The cases of Houghtaling and Stafford have been presented to the grand jury but the case against Manuel was dismissed in city court on Thursday by Special City Court Judge George A. Beck for lack of evidence. Manuel had been fired when the charges were brought against him on June 20. Mayor Koenig said today that he will not be rehired; his position has been filled.

Lyle, a former city clerk, was appointed to that position by former Mayor John Schwenk in December of 1965, served through the four-year Garraghan Administration and resigned in February of 1970 during the first few months of the Koenig Administration. He was later appointed by Koenig to the Water Board where he served two terms as its president. He is still a member of the Water Board.

Lyle is generally credited with putting together the winning Democratic team of the mid-60s that resulted in Democratic domination of city politics. But Lyle has had little success in intra-party battles. He ran for state committee against Maurice Hinchey of Saugerties in December of 1971 and was defeated. He ran for County Democratic chairman in June and was defeated in a three-way race ultimately won by Harold Brown of Wawarsing. Lyle, who lives at 96 Johnston Avenue, operates the Thomas R. Lyle Insurance Agency.

3 Die in Athens Airport Attack

ATHENS (UPI) — Two Arabs identified as Albert Kerser, 55, who attacked passengers at the Athens international airport Sunday with hand grenades and submachine guns gave no reason for their action, officials said today. The two men called the attack a success, police added.

"We did what we came to do," police said "the men told them after the attack."

The two, described as Palestinian guerrillas, struck without warning, shooting and hurling four grenades among passengers—many of them American—preparing to board jets for New York and Geneva.

Three persons, two of them Americans, were killed and 55 more wounded.

At least 10 Americans were listed among the 23 foreigners who were wounded.

The American victims were minutes after the attack began. After their attack the Arabs seized between 35 and 40 persons hostage behind the lounge bar but released them unharmed and surrendered to police two hours later after demanding without success to see the ambassador of the United Arab Republic.

Officials identified the two as Zemod Mohamed, 23, and Talaat Hussam, 21, both listed as Palestinians.

Passengers screamed and fell flat in the grass outside the terminal as bullets and grenade blasts shattered chandeliers and windows.

The wounded lay in pools of blood and whisky — from smashed duty-free bottles carried by passengers—while the Arabs held their hostages at gunpoint.

"I saw a woman with a broken shoulder, blood pouring out, shouting for help for herself and her child," said Wolfgang Pfeiffer, a West German.

"I saw men and women on the floor," he said, "where blood and whisky from the duty free shop were running and mixing in a small river."

Officials diverted all traffic to the Olympic Airways terminal, away from the international terminal and police sealed off the building for the negotiations with the Arabs, who surrendered when officials told them Egypt's ambassador was out of reach.

Astronauts on Space Walk, Seek Cooling System Leaks

HOUSTON (UPI) — Skylab mission, was to raise the awning and replenish the film, but the search for yellow and brown stains resulting from the antifreeze leaks gave the walk extra significance.

"You ought to see some yellow and brown vapor deposits," ground communicator Story Musgrave told the two spacemen, Gwen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma.

The main purpose of the afternoon spacewalk was to install film in four solar telescopes and raise a new sunshade, but the antifreeze leaks gave the outside activity extra significance.

Commander Alan L. Bean just as they would when they examined their jet airplanes for hydraulic fluid leaks. Skylab's cooling system problem, latest in a series of troubles to plague the space station since launch 84 days ago, involved both the main and secondary mazes of plumbing that runs from large radiators on the outside skin of Skylab to internal cooling equipment.

Since the astronauts noticed no leaks inside, flight director Donald Puddy said it was believed the cooling fluid was being lost overboard.

The cooling systems are used to cool Skylab's batteries, its electrical equipment and the cabin air. Much of the delicate electrical apparatus cannot work more than a few hours without cooling. Skylab's frozen food uses another refrigeration system.

Engineers calculated the primary system can last only 16 days at the rate it is leaking—nearly one-tenth of a pound of coolant a day—and the secondary system has an estimated lifetime of 60 days. Since all the equipment can work off the backup system, this means the current two month mission, with 50 days to go, will not be affected unless there are additional leaks.

Kliendienst Expected to Defend Nixon

Gray Continues His Testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Patrick Gray, former acting director of the FBI, testified today that White House Counsel John W. Dean III asked him for FBI reports within a few weeks of the Watergate break-in.

Gray told the Senate Watergate committee that he complied with Dean's request but said it was unorthodox enough to prompt him to get a legal memo from the bureau's legal staff on the propriety of feeding FBI information to the White House.

The witness, opening the committee's 11th week of hearings, was expected to be pressed hard on whether the FBI investigation into the break-in was ordered limited by the White House; on why Dean was permitted to sit in on FBI interviews with White House staffers; and on why some officials at the Committee for the Re-Election of the President (CRP) were not interviewed in the first weeks following the Dean occurred either June 25 or July 2, 1972. The break in cratic headquarters last summer. Jeb Stuart Magruder, former CRP deputy director, testified earlier that if his assistants had been questioned, the Watergate cover-up would have fallen apart in the period shortly after it was conceived.

As Gray testified: —Samuel Dash, chief counsel to the Senate committee, said the panel would delay its appearance in court to press its legal battle to force President Nixon to release tape recorded conversations with his aides about Watergate. The committee's court maneuvers were to have started today.

—White House lawyers plan to go to court Tuesday to respond to a "show cause" order issued after Nixon refused to honor subpoenas for the tapes issued by Archibald Cox, special Watergate prosecutor.

Gray testified that his first post-Watergate contact with the Dean occurred either June 25 or July 2, 1972. The break in was June 17, Gray said Dean telephoned and asked to meet the acting director of the FBI and the counsel to the President's office at the Justice Department.

Gray said they met on a park bench near Gray's apartment in southwest Washington. He said Dean's first words were:

"This is a heck of a note when told Nixon the full story on that telephone and came away convinced it was the President's park bench to avoid leaks," details.

Gray gave few details about what they discussed. But he said it was his "recollection" the Justice Department investigation that Dean did not ask for raw data and reports on field interviews on that occasion.

That request, he said, came on July 9.

After checking with the bureau's lawyers, Gray said, he gave Dean the information.

He insisted Dean came to the FBI in person to get it, he said, and he handed him a "brown, morning on the case."

Three hours later, Kleindienst called the President and set up a meeting after Sunday morning church services at the White House, the sources said.

"The President was amazed," and subsequent cover-up until Kleindienst was quoted as telling investigators of the April 15, former Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst is 15 meeting. "The President prepared to tell the Senate Watergate committee this week, for the first time, or if he had heard something, it was just said Kleindienst personally the day before."

Win 12-Mile Canoe Race

Lee Cabe and Tom Hagerman maneuver their two-man canoe beneath the New Paltz bridge to win the first annual Barnaby Canoe Race held Sunday on the Wallkill River. The 12-mile race—from Gardiner to New Paltz—attracted 20 entrants and was held in conjunction with the annual Red Carpet Week in New Paltz. Trophies were awarded by Barnaby's Loaf and Tankard on North Chestnut Street. The week-long Red Carpet affair featured an antique fair, flea markets and the annual tour of the historic Old Stone Houses on Huguenot Street. (Freeman photo by Powell)

Thompson Pond On U.S. List

By TIM SCHUSTER

STANFORD Thompson Pond, in the northern Dutchess County Town of Stamford, has been added to the National Registry of Natural Landmarks, according to an announcement by Secretary of the Interior Rogers C. B. Morton.

It was among an addition of 11 outstanding wetland areas of New York State to be accepted on the Registry.

Thompson Pond is a 308-acre area illustrative of great ecological diversity within a small area. A wide array of wildlife is supported by the glacially-created pond, marshes, swamps and woodlands near Stissing Mountain.

Also among the areas cited is Round Lake, one of only 11 aqua-green lakes known in the United States. Round Lake, surrounded by virgin forest, is part of Green Lakes State Park, 10 miles east of Syracuse.

The Landmark program, administered by the Department of the Interior's National Park Service, was introduced in 1964. Since then 242 unspoiled natural areas representing every part of the nation have been added to the Registry.

All lands which have retained an undisturbed natural state are eligible for landmark status, regardless of whether they are publicly or privately owned. Landmark designation is intended to encourage owners to preserve the areas.

Besides Thompson Pond and Round Lake, other newly designated landmarks are: Bear Swamp, Albany County, where dense and extensive stands of laurel have persisted for hundreds of years; Big Red Pond, Suffolk County, including the easternmost fresh water lake on Long Island.

Some others are Lakeview Marsh and Barrier Beach, Jefferson County, along the shores of Lake Ontario; McLearn Bogs, Tompkins County, owned by Cornell University and containing two bogs, one acid and the other alkaline; Oak Orchard Creek Marsh, Genesee and Orleans Counties, a two-mile undisturbed marsh; and Zurich Bog, Wayne County, a northern bog with uncommon plants for the area.

Auditors Critical of Rhinebeck

RHINEBECK Several procedural irregularities and some "conflict of interest" involving board members were listed among findings in the Village of Rhinebeck's recently released audit by the state.

The report from the New York State Department of Audit and Control had no major condemnations of village practices in the period from June 1, 1970 through May 31, 1972.

One remark in the report referred to the village's hiring of Trustee John Marks as a $40 a month janitor for the village building, a position he no longer holds, stating that this is "contrary to public policy." The condition no longer exists. It was claimed by village officials that no one else could be found to do the job at the time.

An there was some criticism of Mayor Peter F. Sipperley's doing some plumbing work for the village at the water plant, an action defended by Sipperley as emergency work when there was no one else available.

Marks' electrical firm did some minor work for the village during the audit period.

The report gave the 1970 census for the village at 2,336, with 1972 total assessed valuation set at $19,188,805, with real property tax value set at $13,425,875. Clerk-treasurer and budget officer for the village was and is Patricia Pflum.

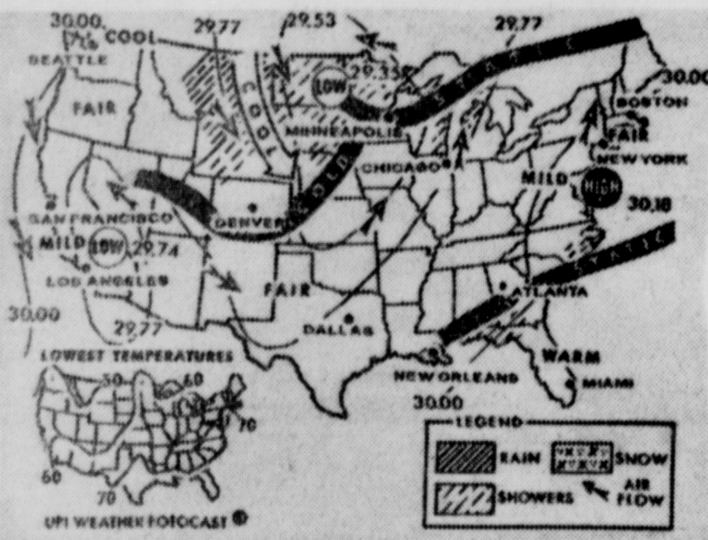

Some other exceptions the audit noted: "The village holds tax sale certificates dating to the 1957-58 fiscal year. The board of trustees should give consideration to the enforcement of these liens."

The audit suggested that Dutchess County Sheriff's Department deputies employed by the village on an hourly basis be either sworn in as village patrolmen or that charges for their services be sent to the county.

It also stated that no record was found to indicate that bids were requested by public advertisement for the purchase of a radar unit costing in excess of $1,000 in 1971-72. The new figure (1972) in use by municipalities is $1,500 maximum before going to bid.

And the report said that several zoning law changes were enacted in 1972 where adequate legal notice had not been given, for public hearings. The law requires 15 days notice, published in the official newspaper.

Green Haven Inmate Picnic

STORMVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — was sponsored by the Italian Cultural Club, an inmate group. Some 110 inmates at the Green Haven Correctional Facility got together with their families Sunday for a picnic.

The purpose of the picnic was to allow the inmates at the maximum security prison to help strengthen family ties, according to Des Velez, coordinator of the prison's volunteer programs. Velez called the picnic "a tremendous success."

"If you didn't look up at the walls, you'd have thought you were in Central Park," Carl Berry, deputy superintendent said.

The event was held inside the recreation area of the mammoth facility located in rural Dutchess County. The picnic opportunity to relate to their families in as close to normal circumstances as possible," Berry said.

The picnic will become an annual event, according to Velez.

Rocky Getting Ready for New Drug Law

NEW YORK (UPI)—Governor Rockefeller Sunday announced that 15 new courtrooms will be opened in the city after labor day to handle narcotics cases under the state's stringent, new drug law.

An additional 14 courtrooms will be in operation by Jan. 1, he said.

Saturday Rockefeller announced the appointment of 10 persons as a screening panel to review and advise him on the suitability of judicial candidates.

He said the "panel will base its approval solely on the integrity, ability, background and judicial temperament of each candidate."

Mayor John V. Lindsay issued a statement saying "the panel is a major breakthrough in the selection of judges for the state courts by the governor and we welcome it."

The new drug law takes effect Sept. 1 and provides mandatory life sentences for certain drug violations.

"The people of New York have made it clear, through their elected representatives, that they want the crime, the violence, the fear and the moral deterioration caused by drug pushing to be stopped," Rockefeller said Sunday.

The 15 courts to be opened directly after Labor Day include five in Manhattan, five in Brooklyn, three in The Bronx and two in Queens.

Rockefeller said an in-depth study is underway to identify additional court spaces for the next phase of the city program and major construction may become necessary if adequate space cannot be located.

Rockefeller, in announcing the appointments, said he was "appointing a screening panel of distinguished citizens, including both lawyers and non-lawyers, to help me insure that the best qualified people are appointed to the bench."

Named chairman of the prestigious group was Francis Bergan of Albany, retired associate judge of the Court of Appeals, the state's highest tribunal.

Other members named by Rockefeller were:

William Fitzpatrick of Syracuse, former president of the State Bar Association; Bruce Bromley of New York City, former associate judge of the Court of Appeals; Charles R. Diebold of Buffalo, a banker and lawyer; Irving Lang of New York City, judge of the city's criminal court.

Also, John A. Wells, a New York City attorney; Samuel M. Hesson of Schenectady, dean of the Albany Law School; Mrs. George Ames of Rye, former president of the state League of Women Voters; Howard Coughlin of Yonkers, president of the Office and Professional Employees International Union, and Judith Younger of New York City, associate dean of Hofstra Law School.

Rockefeller said that A. C. O'Hara, whom he appointed to head up the coordination of the new drug law, had reported to him that:

"Plans for implementation of the dangerous drug control program in New York City are now complete. The administration board of the Judicial Conference is expected to adopt the plan shortly.

—All state and city agencies responsible for implementing the plan have submitted budgets.

—The coordinating committee is now studying facilities in Westchester County and will begin studying in the next few days to determine the need for additional courtrooms in the Third and Fourth Judicial Departments.

The state's new drug laws to go into effect Sept. 1 and an influx of prisoners is expected to begin moving through the courts shortly thereafter.

Search for Adirondack Suspect Continues

SPECULATOR, N.Y. (UPI)—

A state trooper at a remote command post near this Hamilton County community could only say Sunday night that "everything remains the same" in the search for the accused killer of a youth who had been camping in the Adirondacks.

The search, now in its second week, is being continued today with two state police helicopters, several teams of bloodhounds, and other law enforcement officers combing the dense underbrush and rugged terrain.

Troopers have individually logged dozens of miles of walking through the cordoned-off area for Robert F. Garrow Sr., 37, of Syracuse. Garrow, a hefty former convict has been named as the slayer of Philip Dombrowski, 18, of Schenectady. The body of the boy was found July 29, slumped at the foot of a tree to which he had been tied. He had been stabbed in the chest.

A woman motorist on Interstate 87, the Adirondack Northway, reported Sunday evening she had seen a man fitting Garrow's description climbing over a fence designed to keep animals and pedestrians from the superhighway. Although patrol cars were immediately sent into the area, the search proved fruitless, and a state police spokesman said they did not believe they had a positive enough sighting to move their search headquarters from their present location, which is 30 to 40 miles west of the Northway.

Search coordinator Maj. Francis Stankamp said he still believed Garrow was in the vicinity of their concentrated search. He added that the many small paths which criss-cross through the woodland remained the focal point in the manhunt.

Three of Dombrowski's camping companions, who were herded into the woods from their campsite by a rifle-bearing man early that day, identified police pictures of Garrow as the alleged killer.

Garrow, an expert woodsman with a detailed knowledge of this wilderness area, was seen running into the woods early Monday, and was sighted again nearby late Thursday by troopers.

Some 150 state troopers and 25 other lawmen, armed with shotguns and high-powered rifles, have sealed off the area where Garrow is believed hiding.

Troopers have concentrated their search in an area near where a four-foot high lean-to cut from pine and poplar boughs was discovered Thursday. The igloo-shaped structure contained an unspent 30-30 rifle cartridge, matching the type of gun Garrow is believed to be carrying.

Officials say they want to capture the suspect alive, both for questioning about the earlier death of Daniel Porter, 22, of Concord, Mass., at a campsite 30 miles away and the disappearance of Porter's companion, Susan Petz, 21, of Skokie, Ill.

Stankamp said hairs found in Garrow's orange Volkswagen abandoned nearby, were being analyzed and compared with samples of Miss Petz' hair.

Garrow, a Syracuse bakery mechanic with two children, is also being sought on a warrant issued last week in Syracuse after he failed to appear for arraignment on charges of sodomy, attempted rape, sexual abuse, and endangering the welfare of a child.

Nixon Mulling Statement On the Watergate Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon spent part of a long weekend at Camp David, Md., considering a statement on the Watergate affair he will make after the current phase of the Senate hearings ends.

Gerald L. Warren, the deputy White House press secretary, said Nixon did not begin drafting the statement, however. He devoted most of his working hours during the period Thursday to Sunday he was at Camp David to legislative matters and other business.

The President's first order of business in Washington today was to sign the $3.2 billion, three-year Crime Control Act of 1973. The program is designed to help the states carry out law enforcement training programs and purchase new anticrime equipment.

Nixon has said he will make a new statement on Watergate following the end of the first phase of the Senate hearings. That phase—which is looking into the Watergate burglary itself and related matters—is expected to end this week, possibly Wednesday.

The Senate committee will go into the second phase, "dirty tricks" in the 1972 presidential campaign, after Congress returns from its summer recess.

Nixon flew back to Washington Sunday night by helicopter after having dinner at the Maryland retreat with his wife, Pat, their two daughters, Tricia and Julie, and Julie's husband, David Eisenhower.

Peron Still Uncertain

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—Former president Juan D. Peron, considered a shoo-in to regain power in elections next month, said Sunday he was not sure yet whether he would seek the presidency.

The 77-year-old Peron said he would make up his mind only after consulting his doctors.

Peron was nominated, as expected, as a candidate Saturday by the Justicialista party and his wife Isabel, a onetime cabaret dancer, was nominated for the vice presidency.

Peron returned home in June from Spain after 18 years in exile and political experts consider him certain to run and certain to win.

As he left his villa Sunday and went for a drive, newsmen asked him when he would announce his decision.

"After I talk with the doctors," Peron said.

He spent most of last month confined to his house with what doctors called an "influenza virus" and still is visited every day by doctors, one of them heart specialist Pedro Cossio. Peron also declined to discuss his wife's nomination for vice president.

"My wife has to decide," Peron said. "It's a question for her, not me. I don't interfere in these things."

But he added, "in the case of India and at least 10 other countries, women are not only vice presidents but heads of state. It apparently is the fashion."

Mrs. Peron, 40, ducked questions about her candidacy. "I believe," she said, "I explained quite clearly in the convention." She told the party she and her husband needed a few days to consider the nominations.

The Sept. 23 elections were called specifically to open the way for Peron's return to the office he lost in a military coup 18 years ago.

But political sources said his wife may feel compelled to turn down the second spot—as did her predecessor, the late Eva Peron, who was nominated in 1951 by proclamation to run as vice president with Peron.

TOWN OF ULSTER
The Town of Ulster will submit again for bid in early September portions of two sewer line contracts abandoned by the original bidder.

SiteCon Industries of Greenwich, Conn., announced June 8 that it was abandoning the project because it was impossible to complete the work for the amount of money in the contract ($2 million).

SiteCon won bids to install sewage collection lines in a section extending from Chambers School to Route 209, originally due for completion in May, and another extending from Route 209 to Legg's Mills Road, scheduled to be completed in September. The firm was behind schedule on both contracts when it announced its decision to quit and pulled men and equipment off the job.

Supervisor Carmen Sabino said SiteCon had completed about 30 per cent of the work and had been receiving monthly payments based on work completed. The town now has about $1.5 million of the original amount left, Sabino said.

A third section, extending from the Kingston city limits to Chambers School, was awarded to Uffheil Construction of New Milford, N.J., for $994,735. Work is finished there and awaits completion of the town's new $1.6 million sewage treatment plant some time this fall.

The town's consulting engineer, J. Kenneth Fraser Associates of Rensselaer, has drawn up new specifications for the incomplete part of the SiteCon contracts, and bids will be let in early September, Sabino said, adding that the new contractor would also have to repair streets torn up by SiteCon in areas where they did install sewer collection lines.

Sabino said the town would bring suit against SiteCon after the new bids are let.

"We can't sue them now because we don't know how much," he explained. "After the new bids come in, we will sue them for the excess amount if the new bids are more than the $1.5 million we have left."

Sabino said the town would go to a select list of bidders, "those we know can do the job."

Noting that the other three contracting firms, Uffheil, A. J. Costanzo, and Budd Randle, all had done excellent work, Sabino attributed SiteCon's defection to inefficiency.

"Their operation was very, very poor," he said. "A tremendous turnover in personnel, breakdowns with the company doing nothing and workers sitting around playing cards, in general, just poor management."

SiteCon told town officials that unforeseen water and sand conditions were causing them to lose too much money and asked the town to make up their losses, a move that got a chilly audience from town board members.

"They were allowed to take test borings wherever they wanted before they submitted bids," Sabino pointed out. "They got stuck, and now they want the town to make up the difference."

Sabino said that the town's sewage treatment plant will be completed this fall on a plot of land near the Esopus Creek just west of IBM.

IBM, which now has its own waste disposal system, will then be hooked into the new plant and effluent from IBM will be used to check the operation of the treatment plant while work is being completed on the collection system in the rest of the town.

A "BEEF ACTION" PROGRAM FROM GRAND UNION

TO INSURE YOU A CONTINUOUS SUPPLY OF BEEF

WE MET A LOT OF NEW CUSTOMERS...

As a result...in some of our stores, a normal week's supply of beef was sold in just a few days — even though our "Beef Action" Program allowed us to obtain better-than-normal quantities of beef. Our "Beef Action" Program... whereby we buy beef directly from the ranch...is still working to keep beef in our stores...while Government ceilings remain on beef.

You can help us make the supply go round. This week, buy the meat you need for now, don't overstock... and we'll continue working to keep beef in our stores.

GRIM SEARCH — Rescue workers on Sunday carry a wooden box containing the body of an elderly man removed from the rubble of the old Broadway Central Hotel which collapsed Friday. The body of the man was placed in the box and then removed from the hotel ruins. Authorities said they are searching for at least five more persons in the rubble. (UPI)

Set Probe on Hotel Collapse

NEW YORK (AP) — A city board of inquiry was scheduled to begin hearings today on the collapse of the former Broadway Central Hotel in Greenwich Village three days ago. Searchers probing the 25-foot debris on Sunday recovered the first body. But the unidentified gray-bearded man about 70 years old was not one of the five persons listed as missing. Nineteen others, including four rescue workers, were injured when the middle third of the eight-story landmark, now known as the University Hotel, plunged to the ground. A Buildings Department spokesman said the four-man investigation will look into charges that the 102-year-old structure was altered recently without city authorization. The hotel's two operators were fined $100 each three weeks ago for failing to repair loose mortar. A bulge in the facade was first reported on Feb. 22.

Fire Chief John T. O'Hagan, noting the compacted mound of rubble, said there was little hope of that any of the missing survived. "Not in a pancake," he said.

O'Hagan indicated that there was no room for air pockets inside the pile of splintered wood, for in the wake of the collapse.

Libya, Egypt Hold Meet on Merger

CAIRO (UPI) — Political sources said today Egypt and Libya are holding talks in Tripoli to decide the type of merger they want for their two countries and the date for putting it into force.

Vice Premier Abdel Kader Hatem, who arrived Saturday in Libya, is leading the Egyptian delegation while the Libyans are led by Premier Abdel Salam Jalloud.

The sources said that while the two countries agree on the principle of unity, they differ on some fundamentals of the new state and on the date of the merger itself.

The Libyans want the new state proclaimed in September as originally planned. They want its laws based on the Koran, the Moslem holy book, and its citizens to exercise direct authority by means of "popular committees."

The Egyptians are more cautious, the sources said, and prefer a declaration of unity in September followed by steps to bring the new state into existence.

Moreover, the sources said, the Egyptians are not keen on the application of Islamic law in all walks of public life and feel that a "popular revolution" in such a populous country as Egypt may adversely affect public order.

The talks between the two sides began Sunday with a four-hour session, the major part of it a closed meeting between Hatem and Jalloud and two of their aides.

As the session was in progress, the Middle East News Agency said, an aide of President Anwar Sadat of Egypt arrived in Tripoli with a message for the Libyan leader, Col. Moammar Khadafy.

150,000 Persons At Hill Cumorah

PALMYRA, N.Y. (UPI)—An estimated 150,000 persons attended the seven performances of the annual Hill Cumorah Pageant of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-Day Saints (Mormons).

Elder Mark E. Petersen, a member of the church's Council of 12 Apostles, was one of the 25,000 persons who turned out for the final performance of this year's pageant Saturday night under clear skies.

Each year atop this historic site about 25 miles from Rochester, N.Y., members of the Mormon Church return to give their annual testimony of faith.

The pageant is held atop a hill where members of the sect believe that young Joseph Smith was given a set of gold plates in 1825 that were later translated into the Book of Mormon.

State Alleges 'Incompetency'

Albany Hit on Purchasing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Allegations of "incompetence" in the purchasing practices of the city of Albany were reiterated Sunday as the State Investigation Commission (SIC) released its annual report.

The nearly 60-page document detailed the work of the commission throughout the year concerning its probes of various governments and agencies throughout the state. The examination of Albany included several days of both open and closed-door hearings.

The report listed a series of recommendations the SIC said would correct the shortcomings and irregularities it had investigated.

An SIC spokesman said it was not known if any indictments would stem from the probe, in heard testimony was heard from persons ranging from various local contractors to Erastus Corning II, Albany's Democratic mayor for the last 32 years.

At the close of the hearings in December, then-SIC chairman Paul J. Curran attacked what he called a lack of concern by Albany officials that the city "has permitted itself to be bled and fleeced" by contractors.

Among allegations made during the hearings were charges that lucrative contracts were awarded to firms which then kicked back money to Democratic party coffers.

In its report the SIC said, "The commission's investigation disclosed extensive deficiencies, incompetence and poor administration in the purchasing practices and procedures, and other related matters, of the city of Albany."

Among recommendations the SIC made were that "all city purchases of goods and services should be made by and processed through the purchasing agent" in conformity with the law.

The SIC added that a written memorandum detailing proper city purchasing practices should be given to all local officials. It also said the city should contact qualified experts before spending large sums on a project.

"The division of audit and control in the comptroller's office does not adequately or proficiently perform its function and responsibilities," the commission said. "Consideration should be given to the designation of a deputy comptroller to supervise and administer the operations of an improved and completely staffed division."

The commission said bans against solicitation of city workers by political parties in city property and against political influence in hiring should be strictly enforced.

In addition, full-time city employees should not be allowed to accept additional full-time jobs outside of city government without the permission of their superiors.

Get Oil Burner Tune-Up, August Advice by Rocky

NEW YORK (UPI)—Governor Rockefeller took a hot August day, with temperatures in the 80s, to call for efficient oil burners this winter to save on fuel.

A possible fuel shortage could be eased, the governor said Sunday, if New Yorkers would have their heating equipment serviced for maximum fuel conservation.

Rockefeller also asked both users and distributors of home heating fuels, propane fuel, and commercial and industrial fuels to fill their storage tanks to capacity before the end of the summer. This would assure a maximum supply on hand when the heating season begins, he said.

"The recommendations are modest steps which should benefit state consumers," Rockefeller said.

Although it is not yet possible to present a clear picture of next winter's fuel supply and demand situation, the governor said, several factors point to possible oil shortages, particularly of home heating fuel.

The governor's interdepartmental Fuel and Energy Committee reported shortages of low sulphur crude oil due to declining U.S. production and restricted overseas production.

There is an increasing demand spurred by a surging economy, natural gas shortages, air quality improvement measures limiting the use of high sulphur fuels and the increased use of distillate oil by electric companies in turbine generators, the committee said.

Proper servicing and adjustment of oil burners could save homeowners $20 or more in fuel.

costs and help alleviate possible fuel shortages, the committee said.

The early filling of storage tanks by consumers and marketers would not in itself prevent a shortage, the committee said, but it would assure a maximum flow of heating oil and propane into the state during the summer when demand normally is low.

Pollution Controls On 12 State Firms

NEW YORK (UPI)—A dozen New York State industrial firms have been placed on pollution abatement schedules that will reduce the amount of pollutants they can discharge into local waterways, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) announced Saturday.

The various schedules, which range in length from months to years, are part of the EPA's program of wastewater discharge control. The permits are required under federal Water Pollution Control Act amendments of 1972 and the first ones issued in the state.

They are part of the machinery being used to implement the water pollution legislation, the EPA said. The legislation has set a 1985 date for the complete elimination of water pollution.

An interim date of July 1, 1977, for the time by which industries must have pollution control systems that reflect the best practicable control technology available, has been set.

The firms affected are: Allied Chemical Corp. of Buffalo; Dye Works, Newton Falls Paper Co., Newton Falls; Mohawk Paper Mills, Waterford; Warrensburg

Board and Paper Corp., Warrensburg; St. Regis Paper Co., Kenmore; Latex Fiber Industries Inc., Brownville, Jefferson County; CPC International, Yonkers; Comstock Foods, Inc., Rushville; Sterling Cooperative, Sterling; Crown Zellerbach, Carthage; Imperial Paper Co., Plattsburgh; Groveton Papers Co., Gouverneur.

Two Injured In Cycle Crash

TOWN OF SHAWANGUNK

Two Connecticut residents were injured Sunday when their motorcycle crashed on Route 52 in the Town of Shawangunk, according to Ellenville state police.

Harold McCarthy, 32, of Georgetown, Conn. and Joan Geiger, 26, of Bethel, Conn. were treated at Horton Memorial Hospital in Middletown for multiple abrasions and contusions.

Police said the crash occurred when the driver of the motorcycle (McCarthy) lost control of the vehicle.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, AUGUST 6, 1973

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Not long after Archibald Cox was appointed special Watergate prosecutor, he turned down a recommendation that he subpoena White House telephone tapes.

This was several weeks before the prosecutors learned that President Nixon had secretly taped all conversations inside his oval office. They knew, however, that his two top aides, Bob Haldeman and John Ehrlichman, had taped their telephone conversations.

The original prosecutors subpoenaed some telephone tapes from Ehrlichman. When Cox took over the prosecution, they recommended that he subpoena other Haldeman-Ehrlichman tapes in White House custody.

Sources close to Cox say he turned down the suggestion because he was still in the process of reviewing the case. He didn't want to take any action, they say, until he had completed his assessment. He has now issued a subpoena for selective White House tapes.

Footnote: Cox's office gave us this statement: "It is improper for any prosecutor to discuss communications or recommendations made among the prosecution team in any case. On the general subject of how we have proceeded, Mr. Cox has pointed out that he tried to establish very early at the White House that he had no desire to simply rummage through files. The subpoena issued last week was as specific as it could be to make it clear the special prosecutor sought information clearly relevant to the investigation of the case."

NAVAL NEGLIGENCE: More than ever, the Navy seems to be made up of steel ships and wooden men.

Documents intended for the eyes only of top Navy brass tell how the fleet has been measurably weakened by mismanagement of ship repairs which keep vessels in port far longer than necessary.

In shipyards run by the Navy itself and in others operated by private industry, Navy inspectors have found strong evidence of inefficiency, waste and greed.

In Norfolk, Va., where ship repairs are handled by private shipyards under the direction of the Navy the inspectors found:

NO OVERTIME
— There is a general snafu on scheduling repairs, with some requests being made too late and others being made early but ignored by the brass until the deadline.

— Shipyards that already have too much work are given more, although other Chesapeake yards at Baltimore are not used.

REPAIR SNAFU
— There is a general snafu on scheduling repairs, with some requests being made too late and others being made early but ignored by the brass until the deadline.

— Some repairs are grossly underestimated when ordered by officers. Reported the inspectors: "Results have been excessive work growth from time of initial bid award, at times exceeding 100 per cent."

Late awards of repair contracts — sometimes only 10 days before work is to begin — makes it impossible for contractors to have adequate supplies on hand. The inspectors note: "Material is difficult and expensive to obtain on a crash basis."

— Equipment needed for many older ships is no longer available, forcing contractors to make parts as they go along.

NO WARNING
— Reports on progress of the repairs often fail to warn officials of developing trouble. "Often," the inspectors found, "the situation is one of being in extremes before notifying all concerned."

— The shipbuilding supervisor's office is understaffed, many of the officers assigned are not competent and others are inexperienced.

In their wide-ranging critique of the Norfolk operation, the inspectors said they did not want to single out Norfolk for rebuke.

"The nature of the problems are such," they said, "that they are undoubtedly present in every location where repair work is being accomplished on ships in private shipyards under the cognizance of a supervisor of shipbuilding."

STERN ADMONITION
Inside the Navy, there is widespread knowledge of failure by naval facilities as well. In a stern admonition to the Navy's Design Services, the top brass barked about "the need for markedly improving the entire design services program."

Inspections of a number of naval shipyards showed that the problems were just as bad as in those operated privately. At Long Beach, Calif., for example, the Navy found a "lack of adequate planning."

Citing changes in plans after work on ships has started — sometimes as high as 50 per cent — the Navy admitted: "Continual changes are expensive in dollars and waste limited manpower."

While the admirals continually beg Congress for more ships, they have been unsuccessful at keeping the ships they already have afloat.

Inside Report

Miami Beach Happenings

By ROWLAND EVANS
and
ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Who was really responsible for the Watergate cover-up at the White House may depend on the answer to a question not considered during the Senate Watergate committee's hours of testimony: did John D. Ehrlichman keep Nixon campaign manager Clark MacGregor from the truth about Watergate last summer?

The undisputed facts, not revealed until now, are these. While publicly exuding confidence about no White House involvement in the scandal, MacGregor became privately anxious during the Republican national convention in Miami Beach last August. Consequently, he asked for a full briefing from John W. Dean III, then the White House counsel. After some delay, Dean informed MacGregor he knew nothing. Since Dean was well aware of the cover-up, the truth was being hidden from MacGregor.

Dean has privately informed federal prosecutors and Senate investigators that his silence was ordered by Ehrlichman, then domestic chief at the White House. If true, the Watergate cover-up would be traced to the President's senior staff. If not true, the White House contention that middle-level staffer Dean directed the cover-up would be sustained.

Like much in Watergate, the truth about who kept the facts from MacGregor may never be known. But this question is closely related to the overriding issue of President Nixon's own innocence or complicity. Contrary to the wishes of his present senior aides, Mr. Nixon's role in Watergate has been intertwined with the conduct of his two former deputies, Ehrlichman and H. R. Haldeman.

There is no corroboration for Dean's report that Ehrlichman gagged him in Miami Beach. But other details of Dean's story to investigators — including how MacGregor sought him out — are fully confirmed by other sources.

Moreover, the picture of a frantic Clark MacGregor at Miami Beach seeking out the lowdown on Watergate — a picture confirmed by several sources — contradicts what Ehrlichman has been saying under oath. In his uncorroborated testimony, Ehrlichman has depicted MacGregor resisting suggestions that he probe the Watergate scandal. Thus, up to the unverifiable point of whether Ehrlichman blocked the briefing, the facts favor Dean rather than Ehrlichman's version of reality.

MacGregor, transferred from the White House to replace John Mitchell as director of the Committee to Reelect the President (CREEP) following the Watergate break-in, now emerges as an anguished man at Miami Beach.

He was disturbed by a Time magazine report on Watergate on the eve of the convention. Following his assurances on "Meet the Press" the day before the convention, some influential Republican figures met with MacGregor and cautioned him to be certain of his facts. State CREEP leaders meeting with him in Miami Beach gave the same warning.

Sometime that week, MacGregor also had a strange conversation with Robert Mardian, one of his lieutenants at CREEP who feared the White House was out to get him. As MacGregor remembers it, Mardian told him in conspiratorial terms not to assume too much about Watergate. "Just remember what I said," warned Mardian, without elaborating.

Concerned much more by the advice from nationally prominent Republicans and state leaders than Mardian's hints, MacGregor grilled his deputy, Jeb Magruder, for hours in Miami Beach. Though knee-deep in the cover-up, Magruder denied everything. A frustrated MacGregor next requested a full briefing from Dean, designated as the White House official to investigate Watergate.

Dean could not be immediately located, and MacGregor was told that Dean — then a bachelor — was out on the town in Miami Beach. According to what Dean later told investigators, however, he was checking with his boss, Ehrlichman, whether to brief MacGregor. The answer, according to Dean, was a flat no.

MacGregor cannot remember seeing Dean in Miami Beach. Other sources in a position to know, however, say they did meet in MacGregor's Doris Hotel room early during convention week. According to an eyewitness, Dean informed MacGregor he could add nothing new on Watergate.

In interviews with federal and Senate investigators, Dean has said Ehrlichman later barred him from fully briefing press secretary Ron Ziegler and Leonard Garment, Dean's successor as White House counsel. But his accusation, thus far unexplored, that Ehrlichman kept him from telling the truth to the President's campaign manager a year ago goes to the very heart of responsibility for the cover-up.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Mystique of a Best Seller

BERRY'S WORLD

"Senator Ervin, what is your feeling about all the notoriety that has befallen some of the members of the committee?"

There is a broad gulf between the author who is under contract to write a book and the writer who, unbidden, puts his soul into a manuscript and, with a leaden heart, watches his baby bounce from one rejection to another. Once in awhile — not frequently — editors decline a bestseller.

In my case, for example, I spent all of 1952 writing a book in the cellar. I had researched it for 22 years, and had no contract. It was called "The Day Lincoln Was Shot" and was declined, with thanks, by five publishers. Bennett Cerf of Random House said: "Jim, every kid knows your story. They even know who did it."

Evan Thomas of Harper & Row published it and it was selected by six book clubs and became a runaway bestseller. As a former book editor and literary agent, I know that editors read a hundred or more manuscripts hoping to find a good one. Now and then they miss.

Mr. Thomas, for example, turned down "Lolita." He also declined Norman Mailer's "Deer Park." Would you believe Leon Uris' bestseller, "Topaz," too? Arthur Orrmont, book editor literary agent and author of 17 books, recently wrote an article for "Writer's Digest" about these rare and horrifying goofs.

Leon Uris wrote an outline for a book called "Exodus" and brought it to Bennett Cerf. Calmly, he asked for a $20,000 advance before publication. "Get out of here!" Cerf shouted. "I wouldn't pay that for Lot's wife." It was a poor figure of speech. Nobody would pay that for a 120 lb. bag of salt.

Genevieve Young, executive editor of J.B. Lippincott, used to work on my books at Harper's. She's a bright diamond of an editor. But she read a manuscript by William Golding and turned down "Lord of the Flies." Laurence Peter wrote a short manuscript called "The Peter Principle." It was rejected by 16 publishers in a row.

"The Sand Pebbles" won prizes among novels, but was turned down twice before Harper and Book-of-the-month Club made a bestseller of it. Buz Wyeth enjoys a lot of respect at Harper. He read "Jonathan Livingston Seagull," and sent it down to the children's book department. They declined it with a nice long letter . . .

Simon & Schuster wouldn't publish "Lolita." One of their authors, Herman Wouk, "came along with an outline about a crazy captain and a ship's mutiny," so Wouk was sent elsewhere with "The Caine Mutiny."

Those of you who are still struggling with a manuscript should take heart. Ken McCormick of Doubleday states it well when he says: "Unfortunately, our business naturally is about 90 per cent saying no." It's closer to 99 per cent. All editors should know what constitutes a publishable manuscript, but no editor knows what makes a bestseller.

If this were not true, book houses would print nothing but highly profitable books. In 1944, Simon & Schuster refused "The Lost Weekend." Cass Canfield said: "Any intelligent well-educated person can tell if a book has quality. What's hard to tell is if a book is going to sell."

Bill Sloane, working at Longmans Green, started to read a manuscript which looked like a wedding cake. "I'll read 250,000 words of it," he said. And he did. The manuscript did not seem to tell a story. So he stopped. Max Perkins at Scribner's read all of it and published Thomas Wolfe's "Look Homeward, Angel." Sloane phoned Perkins. "Max," he said, "at what point did that book start to become readable?" "Oh," said Max, "at about the quarter million word mark."

Hiram Haydn is one of the most sympathetic editors. He read and refused to publish "No Time for Sergeants," "Lolita," Norman Mailer's "The Deer Park"; and "The Godfather." Allan Barnard of Bantam Books "just couldn't see" "Love Story" and he refused "The Diary of Anne Frank." A lady editor read "Kon-Tiki" and wrote a memo to her boss: "Who wants to read about a bunch of crazy Scandinavians floating down the Pacific on a bamboo raft?" Wounded writers may hope that she is now somewhere on a raft.

Grove Press agreed to publish a book by Eric Berne, but postponed it. Mr. Berne, told Grove they were hurting his book and could sell maybe 100,000 copies if they published it at once. Piqued, they put out a first edition of 3,000 copies of "Games People Play." It sold a half million copies.

Perhaps John J. Geoghegan, of Coward, McCann and Geoghegan, states it best when he says: "There are, of course, a lot of writers I would have liked to have published who simply never came my way. I firmly believe that everything publishable is published in due course — plus a hell of a lot that would be no loss to civilization, if it were not."

Batista Is Dead at 72,
Overthrown by Castro

MARBELLA, Spain (AP)—Fulgencio Batista, the Cuban dictator Fidel Castro overthrew in 1959, suffered a heart attack and died early today at a hotel in Marbella, on the southern coast of Spain. He was 72.

A son, Reuben, said the ex-sergeant who staged two revolutions in Cuba and ruled the island for 18 years, became ill shortly after dining and died soon after. He will be buried in Madrid, where he had an apartment, the son said.

Batista arrived in Marbella Sunday for a two-month vacation on the Costa del Sol with his family. He came from Estoril, Portugal, the seaside resort near Lisbon where he had a home.

Batista in his triumphant days boasted "my destiny is to carry out revolutions without bloodshed." He called himself an "idealist but a practical one."

But his dictatorship in Cuba collapsed with bewildering suddenness on New Year's Day, 1959, and Castro, the leader of the successful revolution, accused him and his men of killing 20,000 Cubans by torture and terror.

He was a tough army sergeant on Aug. 12, 1933, when he joined in the overthrow of the Gerardo Machado dictatorship. Twenty-three days later Batista's handpicked band of non-commissioned officers overthrew the ineffective provisional government.

Under Batista's rule, Cuba enjoyed much prosperity. His administration had close and friendly relations with the United States. Cuba's biggest sugar customer, Heavy American investments flowed into the island.

But the contrast between the condition of the rich and poor was still startling, and many of Cuba's students and intellectual and business leaders never forgave Batista for his violation of democratic processes.

Batista, who looked and bore himself like a prize fighter, was of Spanish, Negro, Indian and Chinese blood. He rose to power without benefit of much education since there was not much opportunity for it in the village of Vegetitas, where he was born Jan. 16, 1901. He worked as a sugar mill time-keeper, railway brakeman, grocery clerk, barber's apprentice, carpenter and tailor.

At 20, he joined the army. By patient night study, he rose to the highest noncommissioned rank, staff sergeant, and mastered stenography. Then he became stenographer to the general staff, where he acquired the knowledge of the inner workings of the military which enabled him to plan successful revolutions in 1939 and 1952.

School Budget
Vote Tomorrow

SAUGERTIES
Superintendent of Schools Dr. Dexter O. Arnold has issued a reminder to the voters of the Saugerties Central School District that a vote on the 1973-74 revised school budget will be held tomorrow, Aug. 7 at the Cahill School Auditorium. Polls will be open from noon until 9 p.m.

"It is difficult to understand why Saugerties parents have not voted in sufficient numbers to pass a budget," said the superintendent. "The education of their children is the critical issue and they represent more than enough votes to carry the budget. We can prove that we are an extremely low cost district operating efficiently and economically, and providing fine educational opportunities."

"I cannot believe that parents or any other voter in Saugerties wish to force elementary pupils, including kindergarten children, to walk on our present day heavily traveled roads up to a distance of two miles to their school or bus stop," stated Dr. Arnold. "The contingency budget we are now on will also force junior and senior high school pupils to walk up to three miles to their school or bus stop."

"We transport over 3,700 pupils every day," he concluded, "and the hazards involved are frightening."

Youth Accused
In Beer Theft

KINGSTON
A 15-year-old juvenile was arrested by detectives of the Kingston Police Department late Friday for the alleged theft of 110 cases of Schlitz beer from a railroad car on a Penn Central siding off Clarendon Avenue.

The youth was charged with third degree grand larceny and petitioned to Family Court.

Detectives conservatively valued the 110 cases of beer at $440.

Police said they have recovered 50 cases of the beer, but the whereabouts of the other 60 cases is not known.

Olive Dems Cancel
Olive Democrats have canceled their August 8 meeting at the Town Hall. The slide presentation to be shown at the 8 p.m. meeting will be rescheduled at a later date which will be announced.

Woods Named To Rec Board

KINGSTON
Mayor Francis R. Koenig announced the appointment today of Ronald Woods of 15 Len Court to a seven-year term on the Recreation Commission, effective immediately.

Woods replaces Emile Taiclet of 293 Greenkill avenue, an original member of the Recreation Commission whose term expired on May 31 of this year. Woods' term will expire on May 31, 1980.

Woods, a school teacher, is a former chairman of the Kingston Liberal Party.

Permission to Appeal Predicted

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress for 51 additional trial judges and 11 more circuit judges today that clogged court dockets could eventually mean that a convicted defendant will have to get permission before he can appeal.

Appeals are now available to anyone. If an individual has no money he can appeal at public expense.

In his "state of the judiciary" message, prepared for delivery at the first meeting of the Assembly of the American Bar Association (ABA), the Chief Justice urged creation of more federal judgeships, higher pay for judges, and a long look at the controversial proposal for a "mini-court" to relieve the Supreme Court of some of its work.

He reported that for the first time in 12 years federal trial courts disposed of slightly more cases than were filed. But there is still a backlog of 126,000 cases, he said.

Burger chided the White House for delay in filling federal court vacancies, which he said continue "to be a source of irretrievable loss."

The failure to increase judges' salaries for five years, while other federal salaries have gone up by a third, will make it more difficult to induce competent attorneys to take judgeships, Burger said, "and we must not settle for less than the best."

The Judicial Conference, the administrative arm of the federal judiciary, has asked

An appellate system review board is already considering the idea, along with proposals to restrict the circuits for more efficient operations.

"If we want to improve the administration of justice in this country we must try some things that some lawyers and judges may not find convenient or agreeable," he said.

"But I assure you that the judges in the federal system are not going to sit by complacently and continue to do things the same old way simply because 'that is the way we have always done it.' Our thinking must be imaginative and dynamic."

Brooklyn Pair Is Arrested

WOODSTOCK
Hurley state police arrested two Brooklyn teenagers early today on a charge of second degree criminal possession of stolen property involving a car that had allegedly been stolen from New York City.

Dwayne Smith, 19 and James

R. Griffen, 19, were committed to the Ulster County Jail in lieu of $500 bail each pending a court appearance Tuesday before Town of Hurley Justice C. H. DuMond.

The two were arrested at 2 a.m. today by troopers Robert M. Houst and William J. Alfild with assistance from the Woodstock Police Department.

Plan Bus Trip

The Town of Ulster Senior Citizens Club will go on a bus trip to the Auriesville Shrine Tuesday, Aug. 7. The bus will leave Montgomery Wards lot at 8 a.m. Reservations may be made by calling John Boughton, club chairman.

Area Couples' Weddings Reported to The Freeman

Kathleen Cherveney and Ronald Dunham, both of Pine Hill, were married at United Methodist Church in Shandaken. The Rev. Ralph E. Darmstadt officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Cherveney of Oakdale, L.I. The bridegroom is the son of Mr.

and Mrs. Daniel Dunham of Shandaken.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She selected her sister's wedding gown which was white accented with lime-green ribbons. The gown featured a cathedral length train. The bride carried a bouquet of daisies and yellow roses.

Jackie Cherveney of Mt. Morris, N.Y., was maid of honor for her sister in a full length green gown. She carried a bouquet of daisies.

Kathy Cashman of Oakdale, L.I. was bridesmaid. Her gown and bouquet were similar in styling to the honor attendant's.

George Cherveney was best man for his brother, Charles Frasier Jr., cousin of the bridegroom, was an usher.

A reception was given at Woodlawn Valley Inn.

The bride and bridegroom are graduates of Onteora Central School. He is employed at West Associates, Grand Gorge.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunham will reside at Pine Hill.

Our Lady of Lourdes Church in Kerhonkson was the setting for the July wedding of Kathy Leila Coddington of Accord and Edward Richard Kowalski of Wawarsing. The Rev. Philip Sandstrom officiated at the double ring ceremony. Miss Anna Henninger, organist, provided traditional wedding selections.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Coddington of Accord. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kowalski of New Hampton, N.Y.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a white crepe gown styled with an Empire waistline, scooped neckline, and detachable train. The gown was accented with pearls and lace. A crown of pearls held her floor-length veil and she carried a bouquet of stephanotis and baby's breath, centered with an orchid.

Lennie Baldaeus of New Paltz, cousin of the bride, was honor attendant. Linda Gray of Kerhonkson was bridesmaid and Laura Ann Baldaeus, cousin of the bride, served as flower girl.

The honor attendant and bridesmaid were gowned alike in pale aqua chiffon gowns fashioned with modified and fitted Empire bodices. The gowns featured high necklines and long, sheer bishop sleeves. The A-line skirts were styled in the demi-bell silhouette. Floral patterned, hand-clipped, white venise lace braid trimmed the jewel necklines and waists. They carried bouquets of aqua and white daisies.

The flower girl wore a white dotted Swiss gown styled with puffed sleeves and aqua ribbons. She carried a basket of aqua and yellow daisies.

Irving Cherry of Middletown was best man. Ushers were Kenneth Coddington Jr., Thomas Coddington, and Steven Coddington, brothers of the bride. Steven McNamara was ringbearer.

A reception was given at Holiday Inn.

The bride, a 1972 graduate of Rondout Valley High School, is employed as a secretary at Channel Master in Ellenville.

Her husband, a 1966 alumnus of Minisink Valley High School, served two years in the U.S. Army, including a tour of Vietnam, earning the rank of sergeant. He is employed by Peter's Market in Nanapanoch.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda, Mr. and Mrs. Kowalski will reside in Wawarsing.

Betrothal Announced Recently

Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Haltermann of Kingston announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Annabel Thalie, to Jeffry Martin Daley of Westbrook, Me., son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Armand Daley.

Miss Haltermann, a 1968 graduate of Kingston High School, she was also graduated from Mt. Ida Jr. College in Newton, Mass.

Her fiancé, a 1973 alumnus of North Carolina State University, is employed by Rochester Paper Company, Rochester, Mich.

MARY ANNABEL T. HALTERMANN

Petersen - Berryann Marriage

Kathleen Kim Petersen of Mt. Tremper was married to Charles Berryann of Mt. Tremper on Saturday, July 28 at the home of the bride. The Rev. Donald Hicks of Dutch Reformed Church in Woodstock officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Arthur Smith of Mt. Tremper and the late Gunnar V. Petersen. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Berryann of Mt. Tremper.

Given in marriage by her mother and step-father, the bride selected an Empire style gown with small pink floral design on white nylon. The gown, which was made by her mother, featured a scooped neckline and Juliet sleeves. She wore a headpiece of pink daisies and baby's breath and carried a similar nosegay.

Mrs. David Sheely of Cottekill, sister of the bride, was matron of honor in a gown fashioned with small yellow flowers on yellow nylon. The gown, which was styled identically to the bride's, was made by Mrs. Sheely. An arrangement of yellow daisies and baby's breath served as her headpiece and she carried a matching nosegay.

Roger Berryann was best man for his brother.

A reception was given at the home of the bride's mother and step-father.

The bride and bridegroom are graduates of Onteora Central School. He is employed by Nero's Restaurant in Troy.

After a wedding trip to Lake George, the couple will reside in Troy.

Playhouse to Feature Mystery

A new mystery, "The Sound of Murder," will open at the Valley Playhouse, Poughkeepsie, Tuesday Aug. 7th.

The mystery, written by English Author William Fairchild ran for more than 1,000 performances in London. The London Sunday Times called it the "Liveliest murder yarn in years," and the Evening News said "It has enough twists to keep interest floating with a nice bit of chillery at the end."

Starring in the "Sound of Murder" is Elizabeth Fleming from the TV series "Love of Life." In addition, Miss Fleming has also appeared on "The Naked City," "Defenders" and "The Doctors." On stage Miss Fleming has been seen in "Seidman and Son," and the National Company's "Impossible Years."

Movie goers have seen her in "Pigeons," "The Way We Were," and "Madigan."

The director of "The Sound of Murder" is Paul M. Prentiss, who in addition to directing has designed the settings this season for the Valley Playhouse. This is the second year Mr. Prentiss is associated with Producer Peter O'Rourke. He teaches directing and Greek Theatre History at Rockford College in Rockford, Ill., during the winter season.

"Sound of Murder" will run for one week until Sunday, August 12. For further information contact The Playhouse.

The co-chairmen have announced that all amateur gardeners are welcome to exhibit and they do not have to hold membership in a garden club. This year's theme will be "Our Town," in keeping with the sesqui-centennial celebration for the Town of Olive. Detailed information about the show may be obtained by contacting West Shokan residents Mrs. Herbert Wells or Mrs. Frank Falknor. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

HINTS FROM Heloise

CLEANLINESS MAY BE NEXT TO GODLINESS — BUT...

Dear Folks:

This is a lesson I want to teach you before you learn it the hard way:

Don't — I repeat, don't — use toilet bowl cleaners in your bathroom basin or the bathtub. They are usually not made of the same material as the toilet bowl.

Nine times out of ten, you'll find that the toilet bowl is made of vitreous china. Those china basins are beautiful if taken care of — but have you ever noticed one with an ugly, chipped place? Something had been dropped in the basin and broken that china — just like with a chipped china dish.

Most tubs and basins are made of cast iron (or steel) with a bonded porcelain finish.

I am getting letters from you saying that your basin is rough, and now you can't get it clean. The reason — if you have been using that cleaner — is that the enamel is very much g-o-n-e. Lots of people try squirting some on because it's easy. Thousands of bathtubs are ruined this way.

Know how much it costs to replace one? You won't be able to pay the rent next week, that's how much. Read Joe Blow's instructions carefully before you use a cleaner on your bathtub or basin.

Dear Heloise:

Just recently I discovered that by adding a small amount of unsweetened, but flavored, powdered drink mix to vanilla ice cream and mixing well, you can have ice cream in different flavors, and it is delicious!

The amount of powder you add depends on the amount you want to flavor. One-half teaspoon to an average dish of ice cream would be about right. By using the unsweetened mix, the ice cream doesn't become overly sweet. It's fun to have those different flavors without having the freezer full of so many different ice cream containers!

Ethel Smith

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

I'll bet you got lots of letters from ladies on the question about how to have noncurdled scalloped potatoes!

My scalloped potatoes never curdle. You probably make two mistakes.

(1.) You slice your potatoes across instead of lengthwise.

(2.) After you follow your usual procedure, have lengthwise-sliced potatoes, and everything nicely arranged in the baking dish, you forgot to throw the whole sticky mess away and bake a few potatoes!

Result — noncurdling scalloped potatoes!

Bill Wilbur

Dear Heloise:

I know it can be a problem when you're in the shower, ready to wash your hair, and you forgot to loosen the top of the new shampoo bottle.

What I do when I first buy my shampoo is to put it in an empty squirt bottle that most detergents now come in, and label it.

They are all plastic, and most have a top that with a little pull, they're open, and with a push they're tightly closed.

This would be handy when traveling.

An Avid Reader

Being plastic, the slippery bottle wouldn't be in a million pieces if dropped from wet hands on the shower floor.

Liberated Fiancee Nixes Stag Party

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

Dear Abby: As the cliché goes: "I never thought I'd be writing to Dear Abby, but here goes."

My oldest and dearest friend is marrying a gal he's been living with for two years. Some of his buddies wanted to have a stag for him — the typical kind — a dinner with drinks, and a lot of gags about his "last chance" to enjoy bachelorhood. We wouldn't go so far as to have any nude girls jumping out of cakes or anything like that.

The problem is his fiancée. She says the traditional stag is a "chauvinistic idea" and if his friends want to honor him, they should entertain the two of them together.

The groom doesn't want to upset his fiancée, so he's asked us to call off the stag. I am pretty burned up about the whole thing. I think the decision should be the guy's and not his fiancée's. So you tell me, Abby, who is being unreasonable here?

D.R.

Dear D.R.: The decision WAS the guy's. He decided not to upset his fiancée. So if you want to honor your buddy, do it his way or not at all.

Dear Abby: It is standard practice to charge close relatives for wedding pictures? My sister in law has had two children marry this year. (My son was in one of the wedding parties). She had pictures taken of all the guests as well as the bridal couple and wedding party.

Then she went ahead and had a lot of pictures made up, and she charged her own parents, sisters, and brothers for the copies of the pictures that included THEM.

Is this right? And if it is, don't you think $5 is a little stiff for one five by seven black and white glossy?

D.A. IN C'VILLE

DEAR D.A.: It's standard practice (if one can afford it) to GIVE close relatives one picture of themselves as well as one of the bride and groom. Those who want additional pictures should order (and pay for) their own. And yes, I think $5 for one black and white glossy is a little stiff.

DEAR ABBY: We had to write! Our oldest son, who was a fine athlete before he entered the service, also stepped on a mine in Viet Nam. He lost one leg, and the sight of one eye.

Three months later, he won a trophy in skiing competition, and we have several shelves of trophies he has won every winter since his accident in 1970. He is still able to surf, and has a license for scuba diving. Next year he graduates from college with a degree in physical education.

Last March we attended a meeting of the National Inconvenient Sportsmen's Association in Winter Park, Colo. There were both male and female entrants from 12 years to 50, and some of their accomplishments were absolutely unbelievable! The last thing these people want is sympathy.

We were heartbroken when we heard the extent of our son's injuries. Now we have the greatest admiration for his courage. Do you wonder why we are such proud parents?

Guest Caller Named

Manny Amor from New Jersey will be guest caller at the Saturday, Aug. 11 square dance sponsored by the Do-C-Do Square Dance Club of Poughkeepsie. The dance will take place at the air-conditioned YMCA at Eastman Park in Poughkeepsie. Members of all area clubs are invited to attend.

DANCE COMPANY—On Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 8 and 9 the Jan Wodinsky Dance Company will be featured at the Woodstock Playhouse in a dance film. Sponsored by the National Shakespeare Company, the film will highlight dancers who perform with gusto and dedication. Included in the group will be (l-r) Mike Wodynski, David Monroe and Paul Wilson. Tickets are available at the Woodstock Playhouse box office. Performance at 8:30 p.m.

Art Exhibition Scheduled

Area artists and craftsmen are invited to participate in the art exhibit being planned by the New Paltz Arts Association in conjunction with the Ulster County Fair, slated this year for Aug. 11 and 12.

The two-day exhibit will be one of the major features of the fair and entry forms are available from Mrs. Camy Fischer, 173 Route 208, New Paltz, 12561.

An entry fee will be charged for eight feet of space for each day. Displays scheduled for both days must be taken down Saturday and rehung Sunday morning. Snowfencing will be supplied as outdoor gallery walls for artists, but craftsmen must supply their own tables. Each artist is responsible for his own display.

Cash awards and ribbons will be given to winners in both professional and amateur categories. Judging will take place between noon and 1 p.m., Aug. 11. Setup time is between 8:30 and 9:30 a.m. each day, and show hours will be 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Law Requires Scales for Consumer Use

Consumers facing the pinch of higher food prices and shrinking grocery budgets can make certain that they are getting their money's worth by carefully examining pre-packaged food and weighing it on a scale that every store must provide for the convenience of the consumer, Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz said today.

The Attorney General noted that a state law, enacted on his recommendation, makes the provisions for the scales and the labelling of pre-packaged food.

"This law was passed with the aim of ending fraud and deception in the packaging of food products and the elimination of short weighing of foods which are prepared and wrapped in advance of sale by a merchant," he said. The Attorney General said that consumers who find that merchants do not provide an accurate scale should advise the Bureau of Consumer Frauds and Protection of his office at Two World Trade Center, New York City.

City Officials Seeking Aid for Sanitary Lines

KINGSTON City officials, faced with what will obviously be an expensive bill for emergency repairs to sanitary sewer lines on Pine Grove Avenue leading in to Broadway, will attempt to prove the damage was caused by the storms of June 29-July 2 and thereby become eligible for Federal Disaster Assistance Administration funds.

Superintendent of Public Works Charles J. Cole said that federal assistance "might be a little premature at this point in time, but we may be able to pin it down to the storm."

Meetings with federal officials are planned later this week.

Cole said the first indication that there was something seriously wrong with the 18-inch sanitary sewer line on Pine Grove Avenue, came in late June when the YMCA on Broadway reported flooding in its basement. The Department of Public Works pumped out the basement of the 'Y' and managed to clear the sewage line with hydraulic pumps.

It functioned until June 29 when four inches of rain fell. "In the meantime," Cole said,

"a cave-in had developed in the center of the parking area (between the YMCA and the Bus Terminal), indicating a rupture in the line."

The DPW then excavated, went down the 20 feet to the sewage line and found it completely blocked with dirt and silt. On the way down, the DPW crews found a six-inch uncapped vertical standpipe with a direct connection to the main line. Cole figures most of the dirt and silt came down that standpipe and eventually plugged the main line.

"There was no way we could unplug it," Cole said. "It was just a total stoppage."

The only answer, Cole said, was to install new sewage lines, replacing the plugged and damaged lines.

"We're just not equipped for that kind of job," Cole said.

As a result, the Board of Public Works, two weeks ago, let an emergency contract with Turk Construction Inc. of Kingston on a cost plus 15 per cent basis. Turk was on the job last Monday, charged with replacing some 175 feet of sanitary sewage piping.

"I don't know how much it's going to cost," said City Engineer Thomas R. Wickman. "We're hoping for the best."

City officials expect Turk to be done with the job by the middle of the month. In the meantime, according to Cole, residents along Pine Grove Avenue will have sewage service with hydraulic pumps which are diverting the flow around the work area into the main Broadway sewage system.

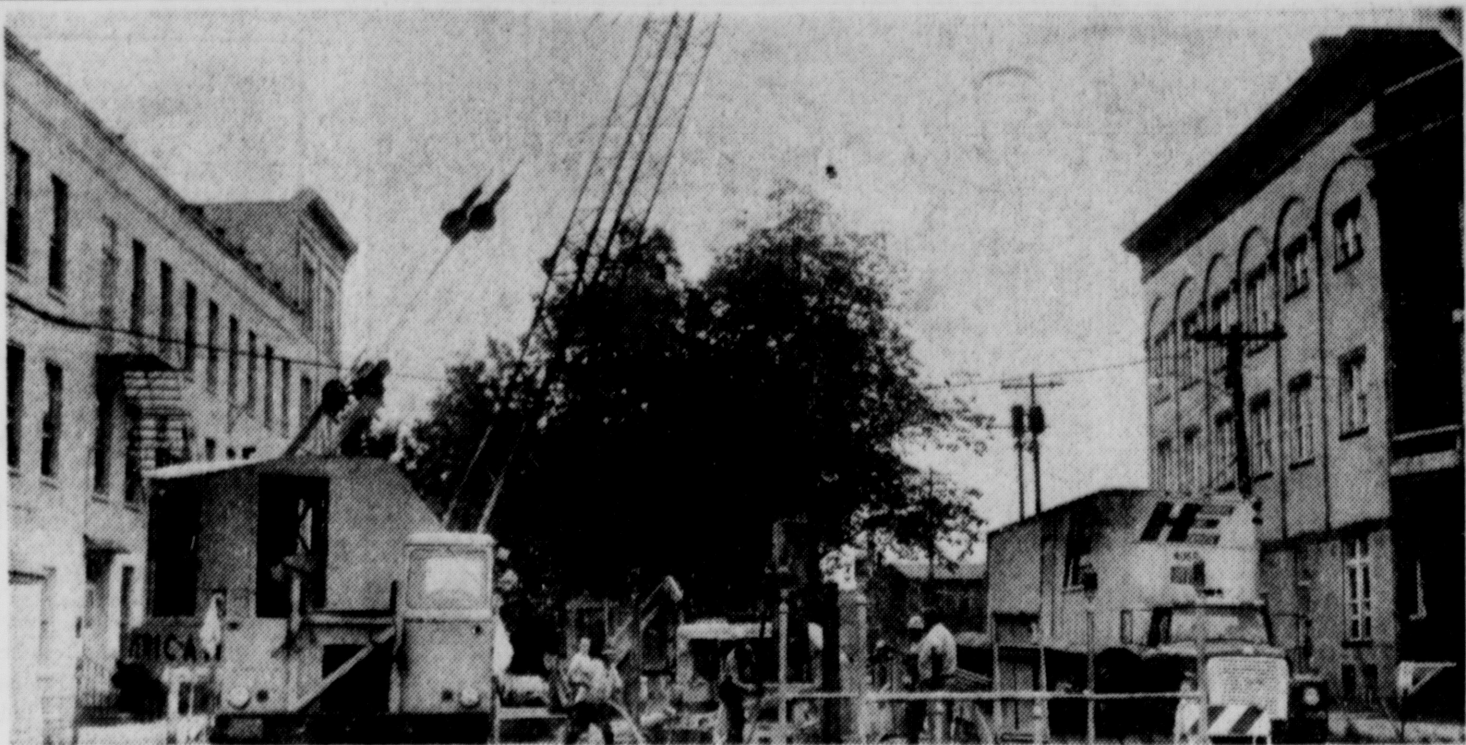

Officials from the YMCA were unavailable for comment as to damages caused by the sewer breakage.

The Federal Disaster Assistance Administration has established a field office on Washington Avenue two weeks ago for the specific purpose of dealing with claims for storm damage during the period June 23-July 2.

If city officials can prove to federal officials that the sewer stoppage and breakage was caused by the storms of that period, the city could be eligible for reimbursement of repair costs.

A similar situation occurred last year when the city spent some $38,000 for storm sewage work off Wilbur Avenue near the old city incinerator. The city was able to prove that the damage was a direct result of Hurricane Agnes last year and was reimbursed the $38,000 by the federal government.

Governor Signs Farm Transfer

TOWN OF FISHKILL extension of its agricultural center for educational purposes. When that department released its title to the property, Senator Jay Byrnes and other legislators introduced a bill to transfer the farm to the Department of Environmental Conservation.

The announcement was made by Joseph V. Poillucci, Chairman of the Dutchess County Board of Representatives' Environmental Control Committee.

Reported Poillucci, "A sum of $20,000 was appropriated by the Legislature through their supplemental budget to insure maintenance of the land buildings."

Stony Kill Farm was originally consigned to the State Education Department as an extension of its agricultural center for educational purposes. When that department released its title to the property, Senator Jay Byrnes and other legislators introduced a bill to transfer the farm to the Department of Environmental Conservation.

Poillucci said, "It was felt that Stony Kill should be preserved in the public trust; environmental education programs can now be developed and conducted on the property."

He added that the state is now negotiating a contract with the Nature Centers Planning Division of the National Audubon Society to develop a master plan for program development and capital improvement at Stony Kill.

MANY THANKS AND BEST WISHES TO ALL HEART VOLUNTEERS

This issue of Heart to Heart is dedicated to Volunteers — the people who represent the life blood of the organization. The work they do, the effort and time that they give, make it possible for you to have a Heart Association in your community and in this nation — The Heart Association that has contributed more money to cardiopulmonary research, cardiac care facilities, and public health education on heart than any other group in the world. We all owe these faithful workers a tremendous vote of thanks. We are proud to name as many as possible in this issue. Many were listed in the June issue and those remaining will be noted in the September one. May God bless and keep them all.

FIRST HEART ASSOCIATION COOKBOOK — "HOW TO EAT WELL, BUT EAT RIGHT"

A brand new cookbook, a first, has been published by the Heart Association. Dedicated to the pleasures of eating well, while eating right, the book answers a long felt need for practical dietary information on reducing the risk of cardiopulmonary disease. The new cookbook contains more than 500 fat-controlled, low cholesterol recipes (400 basic recipes with over 100 variations) to show Americans that heart-healthy foods can be as enjoyable and satisfying as those which can contribute to premature death and disability from heart attack and stroke.

THE AMERICAN HEART ASSOCIATION COOKBOOK is $7.95, and may be ordered from your Heart Association or your local bookstore.

A Knuckleball No-Hitter

By United Press International
Phil Niekro's performance in pitching the first no-hitter in the Atlanta Braves' history Sunday was best summed up by slugger Nate Colbert of the San Diego Padres.

"He just threw knuckleballs and more knuckleballs," said Colbert. "And we didn't hit him."

Niekro, who was a 23-game winner in 1969 but has been a .500 pitcher during most of his career, knuckled his way to the National League's first no-hitter of the season Sunday in a 9-0 victory over the Padres. The 34-year-old right-hander said he was aware of the no-hitter all the way, knew that Warren Spahn was the last Braves' pitcher to hurl a no-hitter when the club was in Milwaukee in 1961 and that Darrell Evans and Paul Casanova kept reminding him to throw nothing but knuckleballs.

"Evans kept telling me to stick to my knuckleball," said Niekro. "And Casanova kept telling me 'don't throw too hard' because the slower the knuckler is thrown the better it breaks."

The St. Louis Cardinals swept a doubleheader from the New York Mets, 3-2 and 4-1, the Montreal Expos shaded the Chicago Cubs, 3-2, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 4-1, the Los Angeles Dodgers nipped the San Francisco Giants, 4-3, and the Cincinnati Reds topped the Houston Astros, 7-1, in other National League games.

Niekro started the season in the bullpen because of arm trouble but became a starter when Manager Eddie Mathews and pitching Coach Lew Burdette suggested he could help the Braves by pitching with short rest like Wilbur Wood of the Chicago White Sox. He's been the Braves' most reliable starter since then and has an 11-5 season record.

The Braves made the game a "laugh" with a four-run sixth-inning outburst which built their lead to 8-0. Casanova started it with an inside-the-park homer and the Braves added three more runs to seal

Steve Arlin's 10th loss against six wins. Ralph Garr had three straight hits and scored three runs.

Arlin pitched to four batters in 3rd
PB-Kendall, Corrales, T-2:26, A-8:48.

The no-hitter was the fifth of the season in the majors, the other four having been pitched by American Leaguers Steve Busby, Nolan Ryan (2) and Jim Bibby.

The Cardinals, who built their lead in the NL East to five games, won their opener with the Mets on run-scoring seventh-inning singles by Bake McBride and Lou Brock, giving Alan Foster his ninth win and tagging 13-game winner Tom Seaver with his sixth loss. Rick Wise pitched a five-hitter and drove in two runs with a homer and a sacrifice fly in the nightcap, lifting his record to 13-6.

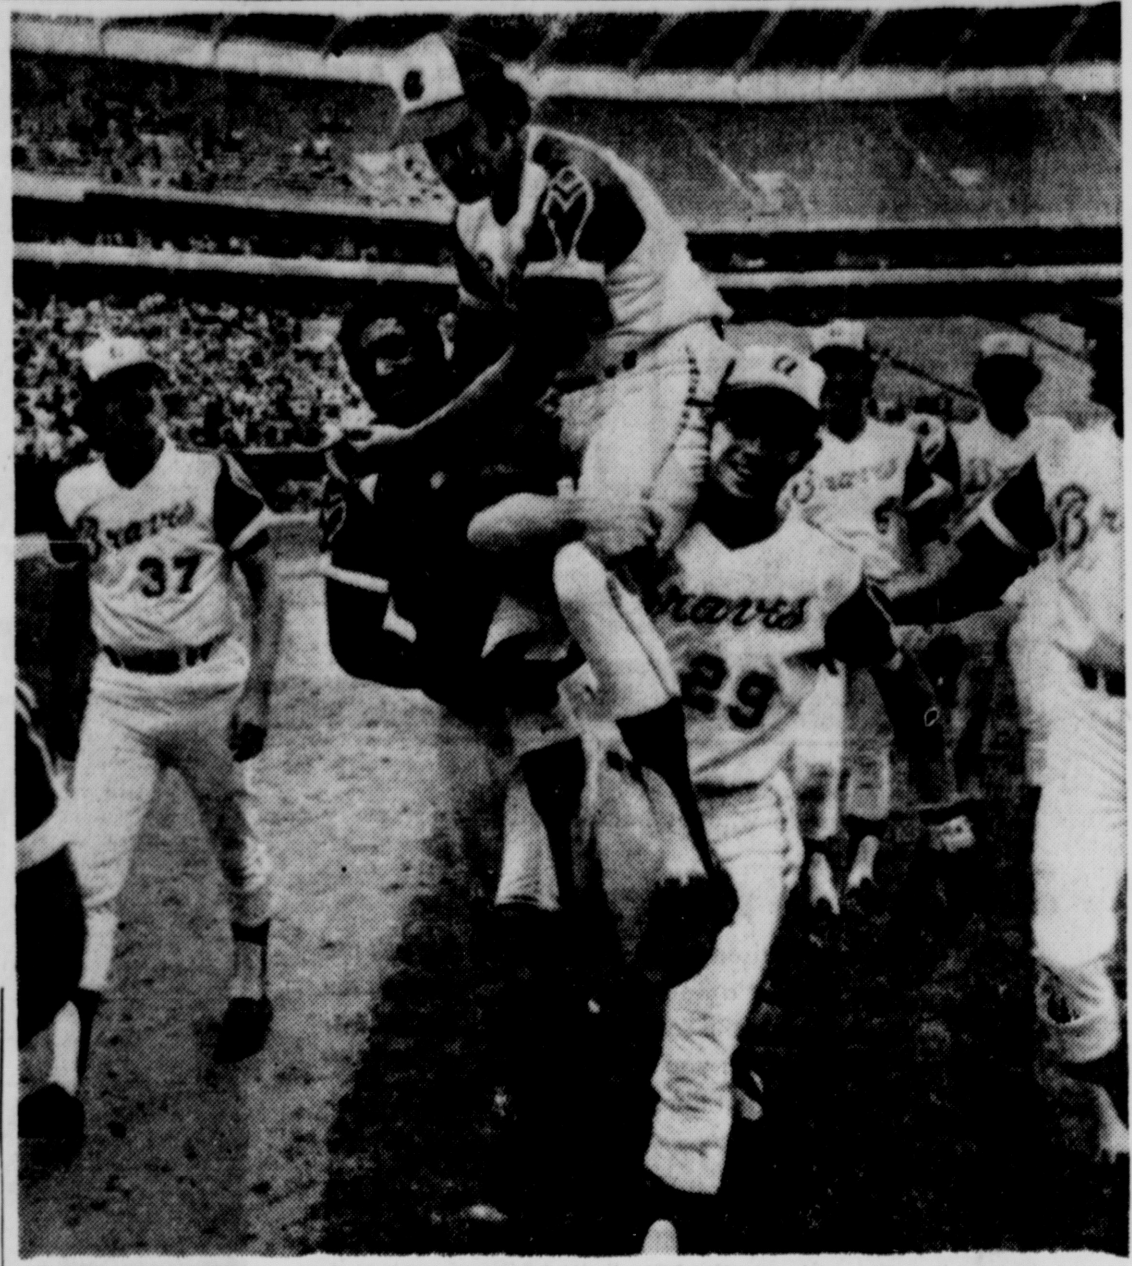

Ron Fairly's two-run single in the seventh inning enabled the Expos to beat the Cubs before a crowd of 31,019, largest ever to see a baseball game in Montreal. Mike Marshall pitched the last two innings to earn his 21st save and protect Mike Torrez' sixth victory. Burt Hooton's record for the Cubs dropped to 9-10.

Richie Zisk had two doubles and a single and drove in two runs for the Pirates as Dock Ellis picked up his 11th win and Dave Giusti earned his 14th save. Wayne Twitchell suffered his fourth loss against 10 victories for the Phillies.

The Dodgers scored three unearned runs as a result of two San Francisco errors as they maintained their three-game lead over the Reds in the NL West. Bill Buckner drove in two of the Dodgers' runs as Tommy John went 7 2-3 innings for his 11th win. Bobby Bonds hit his 30th homer of the season making this the second season in his career during which he has hit 30 homers and stolen 30 bases. Four other players have demonstrated that combination of speed and power a total of five times in baseball history.

Ross Grimsley pitched an eight-hitter for his 11th win as the Reds scored four unearned runs off Jim Richard in the second inning and then kayoed him with a three-run spurge in the fifth. Joe Morgan drove in two runs for the Reds.

McAuliffe Going Out Strong

DETROIT (AP) — Dick McAuliffe says he's going to hang up his spikes at the end of this baseball season.

The New York Yankees probably wish he decided to do that last year, and the Detroit Tigers probably want him to change his mind.

McAuliffe, who is having one of his best years in 14 seasons with Detroit, drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a solo blast as the Tigers outlasted the New York Yankees 8-6 Sunday.

Jim Northrup hit a homer and triple in a 4-for-4 performance for Detroit and raised his batting average to .301, while Mickey Stanley added a two-run homer to help pitcher Joe Coleman to his 18th victory.

Save 24
John Hiller relieved and picked up his 24th save, taking some of the sting out of his 14-inning, 3-2 loss to the Yankees Saturday night. He gave up a hit that scored the tying run in the ninth and Horace Clarke opened the 14th with his first homer of the year.

Detroit, which dipped to third behind New York Saturday, changed places again Sunday and is in a virtual three-way tie with Baltimore and the Yankees in the American League East. Baltimore leads Detroit by one percentage point with the Tigers holding that same slim margin over New York.

McAuliffe, who has mentioned retirement several times before, seemed pretty definite when he said it again Sunday.

"I told Mr. Campbell this would be my last year," Mac said, referring to General Manager Jim Campbell. "I wanted to prepare him so he could think about bringing up a second baseman (from the minors), or whatever."

Tom Knows Why Bob Won

HARRISON, N.Y. (UPI) — Bobby Nichols is $50,000 richer today and says he doesn't know why...but Tom Weiskopf thinks he knows, and he's plenty mad about it, too.

The ball went in.

The victory was the 10th for Nichols in 14 years on the tour, and his first since he won another rich tournament, taking the $60,000 top prize in the now-defunct Dow Jones Open, with another crucial birdie putt on the final hole in August, 1970.

Weiskopf and Dan Sikes, who led by three strokes early in the final round before faltering in the heat, tied for third a stroke behind Nichols and Murphy at 273.

Gibby Gilbert, Frank Beard and Gene Littler all were at 274 and David Glenz was alone at 275.

Nichols beat Bob Murphy in a sudden-death playoff Sunday to win the Westchester Golf Classic after Weiskopf let himself get angered by a fan with a camera and blew himself out of it with a duffer-like eight.

"It was going on for the whole tournament," Weiskopf fumed about the picture-taking folks in the crowd who, he said, were ruining his concentration.

On Saturday, Weiskopf made a bogey at the final hole after a run-in with a camera-carrying woman but that was nothing compared to his disaster at the fourth hole of the final round.

"People were taking pictures and it kind of disturbed me, and I hit a bad drive," said Weiskopf. The ball sailed into a bunch of trees on the right of the fairway and from there he hit it across the fairway into trees on the left.

He wound up with four shots wasted among the trees and an eight for the 422-yard hole, and even five birdies over the remaining 14 holes still left him one shy of Nichols and Murphy.

"I'm sitting up here with a $50,000 check and I really don't know why," Nichols said. But his victory was wrapped up in two crucial putts.

He sank an 18-foot putt for an eagle three at the 509-yard 18th hole to tie Murphy, then beat him with a 30-foot birdie putt on the first playoff hole.

Someone suggested those were pretty good putts under pressure, but Nichols downplayed that suggestion.

"I don't think I have nearly as much pressure on me as some other fellows might," said Nichols, a former PGA champion who is the resident professional at Firestone Country Club in Akron, Ohio.

Nichols, who had 70 Sunday morning in the third round and then a final-round seven-under-par 65, and Murphy finished deadlocked at 272 with Murphy also holing an eagle at the seventh hole—in the final round.

Neither had won a tournament for three years when they went to the playoff and both were on the green in two. Murphy putted first, from about 33 feet, and missed to the left.

"He was right behind me on about the same line so I just figured I had to hit it a little more to the right," said Nichols.

Defeats Might Open Match Race Field

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. — A pair of puzzling losses in the same week by Secretariat and Riva Ridge have taken some of the sparkle off the dynamic duo of thoroughbred racing.

The defeats have also taken a bit of the awe away from the upcoming $250,000 Marlboro Cup exhibition which will match the two who between them own one and two-thirds Triple Crowns. It may even force the Marlboro Cup into an open field.

Three-year-old Secretariat, the first Triple Crown winner in 25 years, "just wasn't the same horse" in the Whitney Stakes at Saratoga Saturday, according to jockey Ron Turcotte and he was beaten by Hobeau Farm's Onion by a length.

Secretariat, a 1-10 choice, ran a credible race—for any other colt, that is—but he wasn't the same Secretariat who won the

all. My horse was fit and ready and he held his ground all the way. In the stretch it was close and we were head and head. But my horse had a little extra and he gave it to me."

Secretariat's schedule now includes only two more races before he settles back for a life of leisure as a premature retiree and much sought after stud.

His next race will be the Travers Stakes for three-year-olds at Saratoga, Aug. 18 and after that his only opponent may be stablemate Riva Ridge—unless the Marlboro Cup sponsors change their mind.

Lucien Laurin, the trainer of both horses for Meadow Stables, thinks they should.

"I wish and hope they make it an open race," Laurin said, adding that he thinks Secretariat is still the fastest horse in the world. When plans for the Marlboro Cup were drawn up two weeks ago, Riva Ridge was picked as the best horse to test Secretariat. But that was before Riva Ridge was beaten by a 56-1 shot last Wednesday at Saratoga.

"We agreed to a closed race, that's the way they wanted it," said Meadow Stable owner Mrs. Penny Tweedy. "That's the way the people who are putting up the money wanted it and we were anxious to do anything to help racing and please the fans. Any change now, of course, will have to be made by Marlboro in conjunction with the NYRA."

"Amazing," Mrs. Charles S. Payson said, waving an arm decorated with two diamond-and-gold bracelets and a hand sporting a ring with a diamond as big as a grape, when interviewed at the ball Saturday night after the race.

"I bet on Secretariat," Mrs. Payson admitted. "But he had the inside and it was muddy. I'll tell you though, I'll still bet on him next time." She is the owner of several winning horses and the New York Mets professional baseball team.

"It was a bit disappointing," Walter M. Jeffords, a wealthy horse owner with homes in New York City and Philadelphia, grumbled about the race. "I don't bet on anything. But if I was a better, I would have bet on Secretariat."

Secretariat, winner of racing's Triple Crown this year and the 1972 horse of the year, was upset by Onion, owned by Hobeau Farms, in the 1 1/4 mile race. Before the race at the Saratoga flat track, Secretariat was the 1-20 favorite.

Onion's victory was the topic of many conversations at the annual ball at the Saratoga Performing Arts Center Saturday night after a performance by the Philadelphia Orchestra.

The ball was attended by about 600 persons who paid $50 each to dance to the sugary music of a society band led by Lester Lanin and partake of a midnight champagne supper that included chicken and apple crepes. A prodigious amount of liquor was consumed.

Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, millionaire horse owner, and his wife, resident in an expensive gold dress and gold appliques, talked to companions about the race and about the coming-out party next Friday for their daughter, Heather.

In the crowd was State Comptroller Arthur Levitt, who engaged in a long conversation with Paul Miller, head of the Gannett group of newspapers and broadcast stations.

Saugerties Legion Beaten

ALBANY — Saugerties won its Friday game in the tournament's quarter-finals, 5-1 over Delmar. After an exhausting semi-final, 14-13 victory over Valatie that lasted almost four hours of Saturday night, the Saugerties American Legion squad returned here Sunday only to lose an 8-5 contest to Melvin Roads Post in the finals of the Legion baseball tournament held at Blecker Stadium.

make the Sunday start with only one day's rest, but he managed only to struggle through the 4th inning. He left in favor of Bruce Hurley, who had been bombed in Saturday's game.

Saugerties continually hit to winning pitcher Jim Kisselburgh but never when it counted. In all, the Sawyers slammed a dozen hits and were gifted with eight walks, but they stranded 18 runners in the game, eight of them in the first three innings.

The Saturday struggle seemed to have taken something out of the locals' attack. To turn back Valatie, Saugerties had to rally with six runs in the sixth inning to get back in the game, then score three more runs in the seventh to tie it up again.

In the top of the eighth, Valatie's pitching crumbled as flame-throwing reliever Dave Van Aalstine issued five walks, including one that forced in Dan Brown with the eventual winning run. Saugerties allowed two unearned Valatie runs to cross in the home half, but Brown, who took over for Hurley in the second, finally got the out to record the victory.

The game began at 8:30 and didn't end until fifteen minutes past midnight.

Whitaker made Friday's opener a breeze by scattering six hits and striking out 10 while Charlie Mazzola slammed three hits and drove in a pair of runs.

Giants' Defense Convinces Chargers

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Statistically, the New York Giants' defense ranks among the weakest in the National Football League.

In practice, says defensive "rover" Jack Gregory, "our defense is as good as we want it to be."

The San Diego Chargers weren't about to argue with Gregory after taking a 28-3 pasting from the Giants in their pre-season opener Saturday night. The New York defense held the Chargers to only five first downs and 118 yards.

The most intense competition of the night was between two New Yorkers, quarterback Norm Snead and Randy Johnson.

Snead completed 12 of 17 passes for 98 yards and a touchdown in the first half. Johnson, after missing his first two passes, riddled the San Diego reserves for 15 straight completions, 157 yards and a touchdown in the second half. He also scored on a two-yard bootleg.

"It's going to be a tough decision between them," said Giants Coach Alex Webster. "Snead had a great year last year and he's starting off at the same pace this year, but Johnson also looks very good."

If the Chargers' overall offensive performance was a failure, the San Diego debut of quarterback John Unitas was at least a modest success. The 40-year-old ex-Baltimore great played the first quarter and completed three of four passes for 45 yards, all to tight end Pettis Norman.

Two of the completions were soft lobbs, but the other was a bullet that traveled about 20 yards.

"He surprised me," said Gregory. "They said he'd lost his arm, but he didn't look like he'd lost it to me."

"I felt good," said Unitas, who got a standing ovation from some of the 43,045 fans when he trotted onto the field wearing the familiar number 19. "It's the first time I've been in there since the fifth game last year. I think it's going to be imperative that I play more next week."

"He'll play more next week," "Smart, and he can still throw," said Webster of his old foe dating back to Webster's own playing days. "It's a question of him getting timing with his receivers."

The New York coach rested superstar running back Ron Johnson to get a look at his reserves, and was happiest with Joe Ornduna, who gained 61 yards in 11 carries, and rookie Cliff Davis.

Davis, a 13th-round draft choice from Alcorn A & M, gained 31 yards in eight rushes.

Weekend Tennis Roundup

Billie Jean Scores

DENVER (UPI) — Billie Jean King, slowed by injuries this year, last weekend showed that the self-described "old lady" of professional tennis was up to some old tricks.

Billie Jean, whose Wimbledon singles title earlier this year was the fifth of her career, beat seventh-seeded Betty Stove 6-4, 6-2 in the finals of the Virginia Slims of Denver Tennis Tournament Sunday to take home the $7,000 first-place prize from the first stop on the summer-fall circuit.

It was only the second win of the year for Mrs. King on the Slims tour. She was plagued with injuries throughout the winter-summer tour and entered only seven tournaments—playing four of them with injuries.

"My game started to come around at Wimbledon," said the first woman athlete to win $100,000 in a year. "I'm pretty happy to be winning and healthy again."

It was a redeeming match for her at Denver. A year ago she was in the finals of the tournament in the mile high city and folded. Nancy Richey Gunther won that title 2-6, 6-4.

Sires Stakes at Monticello

MONTICELLO — The 1973 edition of the New York Sires Stakes traveling road show of champions gets underway tonight at Monticello Raceway, and from all reports, this year's crop of 2 and 3 year old pacers and trotters are better and faster than ever.

Tonight's action will feature 3-year-old trotting fillies. There will be two divisions racing, both going for purses of $13,476. The first heat, which will be the fourth race on the program, is headed by the sensational Geranium, winner of eight of 13 races as a 2-year-old and earnings of $88,064.

Papa Joe's Clinches 'AA'

KINGSTON — The race is officially over in the AA Division of the City Slo Pitch League. Papa Joe's, to no one's surprise, locked it up, with its 11th consecutive victory of the season, an 8-1 convincer over runnerup Capri 400.

In other games, the Beekman Armory moved into a second place tie by downing Esposito's Cleaners, 20-2, in four innings, and the Beekman Arms kept Colonial Lounge winless with a 14-5 decision.

Each team scored once in the first inning, but Big Chick Boice didn't get excited when nothing happened for the next three frames. He just kept flipping the blanks until the Papa Joe's bats started popping in the fourth. The winners got three runs off Gary Barnes in that inning to go ahead for good.

Frank Spinnenweber slammed three hits and drove in two runs to carry the winners' offense. John Tremper banged a pair of safeties and drove in a run along with Boice and Bob Smith as Papa Joe's added four insurance runs in the seventh.

George Drutman and Dave Reilly each drilled a home run, and Helta Heta chased in three with a triple and a double as the Armory climbed to 7-4 and a share of second place. It was simply no contest against lowly

Randall, Bostic Repeat

LEON RANDALL

Leon Randall and Harvey Bostic fired a best-ball 69 Sunday at the Rondout Golf, Pool and Tennis Association course here, thus matching the final round of George Hughes and Bill Odeneal, to maintain their four-stroke margin and win their second consecutive Ulster County Team Golf Championship with a 36-hole, five-under-par 136.

Hughes and Odeneal, after opening the tournament with a 71, claimed second place, also by a four-shot margin. In third was a pair from Ellenville, Frank Muller and his former pupil, Jon Berger, who returned and in fact shot the tournament's only other sub-par round, 74, 70-144.

To those in the field of 16 teams who had competed in last year's initial tournament, this renewal ran a course distressingly similar. Randall and Bostic moved into immediate command by shooting a 67 Saturday, then they locked things up handily with their second straight sub-par round on Sunday. No other team in the field handled Rondout's long fairways so effectively.

What could have been a tough fight for second place also turned anticlimatic when Hughes and Odeneal refused to stumble into a fourth place tie despite stroke to 75.

Si Pesavento and Charlie Stauffer combined for 72 Sunday, the fifth best round of the afternoon, but after a horrendous 81 on Saturday, the New Paltz twosome had to settle for tenth place.

ARRIVAL IN ROME — Princess Margaret of Britain and Lord Snowdon arrive in Rome, Italy, with their two children, Lady Sarah Armstrong-Jones, and David Viscount Linley. The family will spend a private vacation in Tuscany, Italy. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Claims Commissaries Violate Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., believes some military commissaries are offering servicemen cut-rate prices on food and cigarettes in apparent violation of the law.

Aspin said Sunday a 1952 law requires the defense secretary to certify that food at reasonable prices and quantity is unavailable in a locale before a commissary can operate there. However, Aspin said, Pentagon regulations defeat the purpose of the law by allowing commissaries to operate wherever there are stores with prices 20 per cent higher than commissary prices.

"Despite the clear mandate of the law, the Pentagon continues to operate dozens of these stores in apparent violation of the law," Aspin said.

The Wisconsin congressman, a frequent critic of the Pentagon, said there are 278 military commissaries in the United States doing an annual business of $2 billion and costing the taxpayers "hundreds of millions of dollars a year" in subsidies.

Aspin said the Defense Department was seeking $17.9 million this year to build new commissaries. He said he was asking the General Accounting Office (GAO), the investigator arm of Congress, to look into the operations.

The GAO should find out, Aspin said, whether the Department of Defense regulations and their enforcement "are within the scope of the law and how many stores should be closed down."

He said a GAO study conducted in 1964 showed that half the commissaries in the United States should be shut down.

There was no immediate response to Aspin's charges. However, individual servicemen reacted privately with expressions ranging from indignation to appreciation of the savings which commissaries offer.

"Every time they run out of other things to criticize, they start attacking the commissary system," one officer said. Another serviceman said commissaries used to offer a regular 20 per cent discount but now charge close to civilian supermarket prices on most items and often are less well stocked than supermarkets. He pointed out that commissaries in the Washington area were rationing meat, allowing each customer only two packages per trip.

Prime Lending
Rates Increased
To 9 Per Cent

NEW YORK (AP) — Several major banks raised their prime lending rates to 9 per cent today, following through on a ¼ percentage point increase initiated by three banks on Friday.

The increases today by New York's Chase Manhattan Bank, the country's third largest, and others brought the prime to an all-time high and virtually assured that the 9 per cent level would spread throughout the industry within the next few days.

The prime rate is the minimum interest banks charge their large corporate borrowers for short-term loans.

While it is not directly linked to consumer installment loans or mortgage rates, a rise in the prime frequently signals a general boost in over-all interest rates, which might occur some months later.

Farmer, Wife
Are Killed

BELFAST (UPI) — A gunman shot and killed a Roman Catholic farmer and his wife. The bodies of Francis Mullan, 59, and his 38-year-old wife Bernadette were found by their 17-year-old son in a downstairs room, where they apparently were shot through a window. Police said several spent 9mm shells were found at the scene.

The son also found his 2-year-old brother shot in the leg.

Your Horoscope

Tuesday, August 7

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to fill your thoughts and your plans with much outside activity. Look outward instead of inward to make the decisions that will best extend your present interests. Be more decisive if you wish to make progress in the days ahead.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Becoming more friendly with associates whose thinking has been different from yours is wise. A good day to plan a trip. Don't be too eager to take up with strangers at this time. Be alert.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Put those good ideas to work that will make you more skillful and give you more abundance. Show more devotion to loved one. Don't become disturbed at the strange behavior of a friend. Be helpful.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Meet with associates who are important to your well-being and be willing to make changes in agreements so that better results occur. Use more direct methods with one who opposes you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can increase your work output and get excellent results at this time. Find new items to add to your wardrobe and improve your appearance. Have a delightful time with kin tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Once you have done important work, go to the amusements that you enjoy. Engage in those creative outlets that you like so much. Make sure you don't argue with others or trouble could result.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you are more kind with kin and give them a pat on the back instead of criticizing them, you get a more harmonious reaction. Make little changes around the house for added comfort.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Being more cooperative with associates brings good results now. Work in a more efficient way and get more benefits in the future. Make sure you do any shopping early in the day. Relax tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)

Fretting over little things you cannot change is not wise. Concentrate on whatever is important and make far greater progress. Obtain the advice you need from a successful businessman.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can improve your present position by getting busy at whatever really pleases you and is important to your welfare. Make sure you dress well before keeping a vital appointment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you first talk with a trusted adviser, you can take a course of action with confidence. Forget civic work for the time being. Avoid persons who are detrimental to your progress.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Getting in touch with good friends early makes it possible for you to be the gregarious person you are. Take time to go after your finest aims. A kind manner with mate brings fine results.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)

You are now able to add a good deal to your present success because of the fine capabilities you possess and put to use. Don't forget to pay an important bill. Relax at home tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those confident young people who will be full of pride in any endeavor. Direct the education along civic or governmental lines, and there could be no limit to the advancement in such fields. Give good spiritual training early in life, plus musical lessons or whatever is of a cultural nature. Teach fair play.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Barbs

By PHIL PASTORET

Our local bar operates on the "pay as you glow" principle — no credit.

"The Waltons" is about the only family ever known to make the Great Depression pay off.

The stuff they serve from the vending machine is known around here as "instance coughing."

The boss grumps we're always too early to the office, and always too late to work.

The only thing faster than light is the speed at which the Old Man can appear, looking over your shoulder.

With our luck, we couldn't pick the lead horse on a merry-go-round.

Total taxes, gas, insurance, tires — and why do they call 'em freeways?

People who offer a penny for your thoughts have interest worth just about that much.

The boss grumps that the only net gains he's seen in a couple years were on the tennis court.

Considering the junk the gals carry, purse-snatchers must be professional weightlifters.

Girls made up unattractively are wearing "shoo" polish.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

STARES: (Q) I have had a crush on Johnny ever since I can remember. But I just don't understand him. The thing I don't understand most is that all the time he stares at me. He is a lifeguard at the pool. When I try to talk to him he ignores me, but when I am swimming or sunning he hardly takes his eyes off me unless he catches me looking at him. Then he turns his head.

If he ignores me, why would he stare at me constantly? What do you think, and what can I do? HELP! — On the Spot in Maryland.

(A) Be friendly to Johnny but do not crowd him by trying to talk to him except for a "Hi" or something similar. If he is really interested in you as a girl friend, he will let you know.

I suspect that he simply admires your face or your figure and staves. Many boys stare at girls they would never think of going out with.

If you decide this is what he is doing and it makes you uncomfortable, go to another pool to sun and swim, or go to your present pool when Johnny is off duty.

FORBIDDEN: (Q) Patsy's parents have an unlisted telephone number. It is so secret that Patsy doesn't even know what it is. Because of this I can't call her. She is strictly forbidden to call me, or anybody. And she can't go on dates or have visitors.

The only time we can see or talk to each other is if we happen to meet at our shopping center. When school starts we can see each other every day, but that won't be for a month.

Patsy and I are 14. When she tries to talk to her mother about me she gets grounded. — Long Summer in New Jersey.

(A) It is dangerous for Patsy not to know her home phone number. In some emergency she might need desperately to call home. Suggest to her that she talk to her mother about this.

She should also continue to try to talk to her mother about having calls from you or other boys, and visits at home, too. She is old enough for both, and her mother is breeding trouble in refusing her these privileges.

Early Pro Football Start

NEW YORK (AP) — Last week, while recuperating from a softball game in which an 8-year-old pitcher named Gaylord Kassar, the game the season opener between the Montreal Alouettes and the Hamilton Tiger-Cats and the circuit the Canadian Football League.

I know it sounds strange, but the pro football season, Canadian-style, got underway June 20 this year on 93 U.S. television stations with a videotape replay of last November's CFL Grey Cup game.

The villain—as far as football-weary housewives are concerned—is a small, New York-based firm called Ralmar Sports Productions, Inc., now in its second year of broadcasting CFL games in the United States. Marty Rosenblatt, Ralmar's vice president, says his company has the U.S. television rights for CFL games for five years and televised eight last year. What prompted it to try summer football?

"Well, we just felt that baseball doesn't do that well in the ratings and that there's a void in the summer that we try to fill," says Rosenblatt, a lean man in his mid-30s who shows up for work in a denim shirt and blue jeans.

Last year, his company had Kassar, the former Detroit Lions great, and former Green Bay Packer guard Jerry Kramer doing color on the CFL games. Kramer had prior commitments this year, so Kassar is doing the color alone; Canadian sportscaster Don Cherie the play-by-play.

Twelve games are on this year's Ralmar schedule, most of them night games during the week and most of them broadcast live, according to Rosenblatt, who declines to say how much the CFL is being paid for the American television rights to its games.

He says weekly coverage ends Aug. 29, mainly because September is the month the U.S. pro football season begins in earnest and tends to lessen interest in grid battles from places like Calgary and Saskatchewan.

Beef Situation Gets Worse

By United Press International

Some supermarkets are restricting beef sales, some butchers said they were sold out of red beef, and New York City Consumer Affairs Commissioner Betty Furness advised shoppers Sunday: "Forget about buying beef until this hysteria has passed."

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz said it "remains to be seen" whether the ceiling on retail beef prices will be lifted earlier than the projected Sept. 12 deadline.

Cattlemen and meat packers have said the price ceiling is causing the shortage by making it impossible for the industry to pass on the consumer increased costs in getting cattle to market. Shultz, questioned Sunday on ABC television's "Issues and Answers," was asked if President Nixon might call off the price freeze early.

"Well, that remains to be seen," Shultz said. He denied his statement means the administration is retreating from its position that the freeze should stay on.

It is just a recognition of the fact that lots of questions have been raised and lots of pressure has been put on," Shultz said.

West Coast markets reported shortages, limits on sales, and in some cases no beef at all during the weekend. A "first come, first served, as long as it lasts," policy was in effect at Safeway, an employee in Los Angeles said.

In the San Francisco area, shoppers emptied some supermarket shelves of beef while other stores began rationing supplies for the first time. Fry's Supermarket in nearby San Jose was completely sold out of beef, and major appliance stores in the suburb reported a waiting list for freezers.

"People are overbuying; that's the problem," said Al Franzl, general manager of Petrini's Butcher Shop in San Francisco.

In Walnut Creek, Calif., the consumer-controlled Co-Op food market began rationing meat at four steaks, one roast and two chickens per customer. In Indianapolis, the Stark Wetzel Food Co. closed because of the shortage and laid off 25 workers indefinitely.

And in New York, where grocery stores have begun to run out of various kinds of beef, Miss Furness said she believed the shortage was "totally manipulated by the meat people," but she said ending the price freeze early would not solve anything.

"What we have now is less beef at ceiling prices," she said. "But if the ceiling were lifted, we'd have less beef at high prices." She said it will take time after the freeze ends for the beef to be prepared for market.

New York butcher shop owner David Kalter said, "There's not an ounce of beef in the store—and you can't by a nickel's worth of beef at ceiling price in the city—not a nickel's worth."

The shortage was also affecting jobs of meat packers and associated industries in some areas. Between 400 and 500 butchers were laid off at two supermarket chains in Pittsburgh, and Edward Steinmetz, president of the local meatcutters union said, "we could be in for more layoffs because of the critical meat situation."

In Baltimore, a local official of the same union, Jerry R. Menapace, said the shortage could affect the jobs of 800 butchers and in San Francisco, butchers union spokesman Allen Coe said about a third of his 3,000 members have been laid off.

Misdirected U.S. Strike Hits Cambodian Base

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — A misdirected U.S. B52 strike hit the Cambodian navy's Mekong River base at Neak Luong today, Cambodian military sources reported. First reports said as many as 100 persons were killed and an equal number wounded.

The navy and military base and the market area of Neak Luong were hit by about 20 bombs, the reports indicated.

Each of the eight-jet bombers, America's biggest, carries about 30 tons of bombs.

Many of the wounded were brought to Phnom Penh, 32 miles northwest of the base, by boat.

An American Embassy spokesman said he would neither confirm nor deny the report. He said any announcement concerning it would come from the U.S. Pacific Command in Honolulu.

Government forces hold a four-square-mile perimeter around the town of Neak Luong and the navy base and a six-mile stretch of road toward the south.

The base has been isolated since shortly after the Communist-led insurgents launched their offensive toward Phnom Penh last February.

It has a garrison of about 3, 000 troops and marines and is the home port for navy gunboats that do escort duty for the convoys coming up the river from South Vietnam.

The area around the base has been heavily pounded by B52s and U.S. fighter-bombers for months, and wounded from the area have reported that the surrounding country has been devastated.

"Whatever may have happened here can be assured it was not deliberate," said one source at the U.S. Embassy.

The announcements of B52 strikes in Cambodia normally all come from the U.S. Pacific Command in Honolulu. Such details as targets are rarely divulged, and all strikes are said to be at the request of the Cambodian government.

Meanwhile, the U.S. bombing in Cambodia, which survived an abbreviated Supreme Court test over the weekend, will be in for further judicial review by a federal appeals court this week.

On Saturday, Justice Thurgood Marshall overturned a bombing ban issued hours earlier by fellow Justice William O. Douglas. Marshall said he had consulted with and won the agreement of the seven other Supreme Court members in granting the Nixon administration's request to overturn Douglas' action.

During the brief period of time that Douglas' ruling was in effect, the bombing continued uninterrupted. The Pentagon declared that "pending appropriate legal action on this matter, we will abide by the congressional mandate to end the bombing on Aug. 15," the date selected by Congress for cutting off funds for the air war over Cambodia.

Any ban before that date apparently would have to come from the U.S. 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals in New York. That panel had stayed, pending appeal by the government, a lower-court ruling declaring U.S. participation in the Cambodia war unconstitutional and ordering a halt to the bombing.

The Circuit Court is scheduled to hear the government's appeal on Wednesday.

The legal challenge to the bombing was launched by Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., and four Air Force officers, who won a decision from U.S. District Court Judge Orrin G. Judd of New York ordering the bombing halted at 4 p.m. July 27. The 2nd Circuit Court stayed Judd's order pending the outcome of Wednesday's hearing.

With the Supreme Court in recess until Oct. 1, lawyers for Rep. Holtzman asked Justice Marshall to overturn the stay, but last Wednesday he refused, saying he lacked the legal authority as a lone justice to take action that would stop the bombing.

The petitioners had appealed to Marshall in accordance with the accepted procedure that applications and motions are directed to the justice normally responsible for that area of the nation. Marshall is the circuit justice for the 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals, headquartered in New York.

Dissatisfied with the first ruling, the petitioners moved on to Douglas, a process called "justice shopping" that is frowned upon by the court. Justices receiving such a second attempt when the court is in session generally refer it to the full court automatically.

Heavy Fighting in Viet's Central Highlands

SAIGON (UPI) — An artillery attack on a government base camp in the Central Highlands, two bloody battles in the same area and heavy Mekong Delta fighting Sunday left more than 40 Communists dead, military spokesmen said.

The Saigon command said that Communist gunners firing highly accurate 130mm artillery into the outskirts of the Plei M'Rong base camp and two clashes that followed killed 30 Communists and three South Vietnamese soldiers.

The fighting took place half way between the highlands towns of Pleiku and Kontum, about 240 miles northeast of Saigon.

A command spokesman also said heavy fighting near the delta town of Quang Ngai, 318 miles north of Saigon, left 11

Communists, four South Vietnamese soldiers and six civilians dead. Another 12 soldiers and six civilians were wounded.

As the heavy fighting swirled, President Nguyen Van Thieu told a crowd of South Vietnamese militiamen the Communists were preparing a new offensive in South Vietnam.

"They are fighting more and more in Cambodia and Laos," Thieu said. "They still want to take over South Vietnam. They are preparing for a new offensive."

Plei M'Rong is just west of Highway 14, which links Pleiku and Kontum, in an area that has been quiet since the Vietnam cease-fire took effect Jan. 28.

The highway was frequently closed by Communist attacks before the truce but lately has been used without incident by South Vietnamese civilians. American contract workers and members of the international peace-keeping force.

It was believed to be the first time 130mm artillery has been used in the area. Other 130mm artillery pieces were used to shell Kontum early in June but the guns were located north of the city and considerably north of Plei M'Rong.

The command spokesman said the fighting began with a Communist attack just north of the base camp. South Vietnamese soldiers turned back the attack, killing 20 Communist troops at a cost of two government soldiers dead.

He said 10 Communists were killed in a second attack later in the day.

Soviets Launch Another Spaceship to Mars

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union said today it has launched another spaceship to Mars, the third in 16 days. Western experts said the latest craft may land on the Red Planet.

The news agency Tass said Mars 6, carrying both Soviet and French scientific equipment, was launched Sunday and is scheduled to reach the vicinity of Mars in early March, 1974.

Mars 4 was launched July 21 and Mars 5 on July 25.

Tass said Mars 6 differs somewhat in design from the two previous spaceships. It said Mars 6 will "use equipment of Mars 4" in carrying out part of its scientific exploration.

Western space experts said this suggested that Mars 6 will land on the planet, with the other craft orbiting Mars and serving as communications links to the earth.

Tass said the main task of Mars 6 is exploration of Mars and space surrounding it as well as the characteristics of interplanetary space.

It said French equipment aboard the ship is designed for the study of solar plasma and cosmic rays. Solar plasma is ionized gas containing about equal numbers of positive ions and electrons.

Western experts said this was the first time they could recall foreign equipment being used in a Soviet interplanetary probe. French equipment has been used extensively, however, in earth-orbiting Soviet spacecraft.

Balance of Power Restored, Claims Dem Leader Mansfield

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield says Watergate has helped restore a balance of power between Congress and the executive branch.

President Nixon had Congress "on the ropes" in the first few months of the session, says Mansfield, but events flowing from the Watergate investigation have put the two branches on equal footing.

Mansfield made his comments in a weekend interview sizing up the session as Congress started a month-long summer vacation. It is due to reconvene Sept. 5 but Mansfield and Speaker Carl Albert have arranged for a speedy recall of members if the need arises.

With most of their work behind them, Mansfield thinks Congress should be able to adjourn by Oct. 15, but Albert thinks it is more likely to be Nov. 1.

The chief signs of a congressional resurgence are the passage of two bills aimed at cutting down presidential powers and the forced halt in the bombing of Cambodia on Aug. 15. One of the two bills would restrict a president's authority to commit U.S. troops to foreign combat and the other would limit his authority to withhold funds appropriated by Congress.

Although both the House and Senate have passed such bills they differ in detail and compromise agreements have not yet been worked out. That is one of the major tasks awaiting Congress when it returns.

Other top-priority items are the appropriations bills for the Defense Department, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and the foreign aid program; election campaign reform; improvements in workers' pensions, and school aid.

The House hopes to deal with the sweeping trade legislation requested by Nixon, but the Senate is not planning to take it up until next year.

With the approach of the pro football season, steam may generate behind a bill that would prohibit a television blackout of home games when they are sold out 48 hours in advance.

And the straitened financial condition of the Penn Central railroad could prompt action on legislation designed to keep rail service operating in the northeast and Midwest.

The fairly light legislative load ahead is due in part to the unusually busy schedule followed by Congress for the past two months.

Another reason is the relatively skimpy legislative program of the administration.

What Nixon has been sending to Congress with some frequency is veto messages—five so far and several more expected. He has been sustained on all of them so far.

Three Killed In Collision

NORTH PETERSBURG, N.Y. (UPI) — Three persons were killed Saturday night when their motorcycles collided head-on with a pickup truck on Route 22 near this Rensselaer County hamlet, state police said.

Troopers identified the victims as Mark Carey, 17, and his 23-year-old sister, Phyllis, of West Ridge, N. H., and Gregory Clark, 21, of Pennington, N.J.

Miss Carey was a passenger on Clark's motorcycle.

All of the victims were pronounced dead at the scene, troopers said.

Troopers said the pickup truck, driven by George Blowers, 30, of North Petersburg, apparently swerved across the road into the opposite lane.

Blowers was taken to Putnam Memorial Hospital in Bennington, Vt.
